Mussolini Shakes Up Cabinet; Nazi Envoy Called Home

Ministers, Generals And Party Leaders Affected EFFECT STUDIED

Some Observers See Lessening of German Influence in Rome

Rome — (AP) — Premier Mussolini changed eight ministers and four undersecretaries today in a cabinet shakeup which affected even the chiefs of staff of the army and the fascist militia as well as the fascist party hierarchy.

Lieutenant General Achille Starace, secretary of the fascist party since Dec. 12, 1931, was relieved of that post and appointed chief of the general staff of the fascist militia. The announcement said Starace relinquished the secretaryship at his own request.

He long had been a prominent fascist and was one of the generals in the Ethiopian campaign.

He will be succeeded as party secretary by Ettore Muti, consul general of the militia.

As chief of staff of the militia, Starace succeeds Lieutenant General Luigi Russo, who held that position since Feb. 1, 1938, and who was given the position of undersecretary of state in the office of Premier Mussolini.

Alfieri to be Envoy
Dino Alfieri, Italian minister of propaganda, was named for an ambassadorial post, but it was not announced at what capital.

Alfieri had been mentioned for a possible diplomatic assignment to London in July, but the post was filled by Giuseppe Bastianini.

Although some observers saw the shakeup evidences of a lessening of German influence in Rome, foreign diplomatic circles here generally attributed it to conditions within the fascist party and government and considered it without bearing on foreign policy.

However, it was noted that it came shortly after the German ambassador, Hans-Georg Viktor von Mackensen, had left for Berlin on Sunday for his embassy said, "an extraordinary reason."

(Berlin officials said they were unable to comment at present on the cabinet shakeup. They indicated also that von Mackensen's visit to Berlin was a routine one and not connected with the cabinet events.

French are Pleased
(In Paris French diplomatic quarters welcomed the Rome shakeup, asserting that it duce's purpose was to create a "government of neutrality.")

The shifting of Starace and Alfieri was cited as evidence of a partial lessening of Nazi influence in Rome.

Marshal Rodolfo Graziani was named chief of the army general staff in place of Alberto Pariani. General Francesco Pricolo, commander of the second territorial air zone, replaced Squadron General Giuseppe Valle as chief of the Italian air forces.

Alfieri has been minister of propaganda since June 9, 1938, and as long ago as 1929 was undersecretary of the ministry of corporations in the Mussolini cabinet.

Last year, he forbade publication of foreign comic strips with the exception of Walt Disney's productions, and on Aug. 11 this year concluded with the German propaganda ministry a pact for intensive collaboration in journalism, propaganda, the radio, screen and stage.

Minister of Culture
Alessandro Pavolini, president of the confederation of artists and professional people, becomes minister of popular culture in the reorganization.

Ettore Muti, who succeeds to the fascist party secretaryship, is a 37-year-old party hero. 13 years younger than Starace, and thus meets Premier Mussolini's requirement to page 20 col. 7

Russian Premier Assails Allies In Moscow Talk

Says 'There Can be No Question of Restoring Poland'

Moscow — (AP) — Premier-Foreign Commissar Vyacheslav Molotov today accused President Roosevelt of mixing in Soviet Russia's negotiations with Finland "in contradiction of the United States policy of neutrality."

Moscow — (AP) — Russia is demanding a pact from Finland similar to agreements which have made three small Baltic states virtual Russian protectorates.

Foreign Commissar Vyacheslav Molotov announced in a speech to the Soviet parliament tonight.

"We want a mutual aid pact approximately along the lines of those with other Baltic states," he said in a speech which accused Britain and France of prosecuting the war against Germany solely to protect their colonial empires.

Soviet pacts with three Baltic neighbors, Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania, gave her the right to station troops, warships and planes on their soil.

Molotov said "there can be no question of restoring Poland" and that it was "absurd to continue the present war" for such a cause.

He declared that "although the governments of Britain and France understand this, they do not want the war stopped and peace restored."

He accused the allies of "seeking new excuses for continuing war with Germany" and scoffed at British and French ruling classes which Turn to page 10 col. 4

Lawyers Clash at Dinneen Hearing

Argue Over Introduction Of Records as Case Is Opened

Madison — (AP) — Frequent clashes today between state and defense counsel marked the opening today in superior court of a preliminary hearing for William M. Dinneen, former secretary of the public service board, charged with giving perjured testimony in contesting an additional income tax assessment.

Dinneen's attorney, Ray T. McCann, of Milwaukee and Assistant Attorney General Newell S. Boardman disagreed over introduction of numerous bank records and income tax audits which Boardman sought to put into the record.

In most instances Judge Roy H. Proctor accepted the state's exhibits subject to defense objections, but withheld a ruling on whether he would receive a record of the action in which Dinneen sought to restrain the tax commission from issuing a delinquent tax warrant against him. The action was brought in December, 1937.

McCann argued the record was a pleading which, under a supreme court rule, could not be used as evidence against the defendant.

Boardman maintained it was not being offered to show how much income Dinneen had but to prove that he "swore to certain facts."

The state charged Dinneen's income for the years 1924 to 1936 was "greatly in excess" of the amount he reported and that he perjured himself in a sworn statement that he had made a full and complete return and had paid the tax.

Roosevelt Proclaims Nov. 23 As Nation's Thanksgiving Day

Washington — (AP) — Proclaiming Thursday, Nov. 23, as a day of general thanksgiving, President Roosevelt asked today that thanks be offered "for the hope that is within us" of the coming of an eventual world peace.

The proclamation designated the next to last Thursday instead of the last Thursday in the month as Thanksgiving day in accordance with Mr. Roosevelt's decision to move up the holiday for business reasons.

Some states, however, have decided to celebrate Nov. 30. Mr. Roosevelt said in the proclamation that it was fitting to continue a "hallowed custom" begun by President Washington

Bergen, Norway — (AP) — The United States freighter City of Flint in command of a German prize crew felt her way southward along the northern Norwegian coast today with a Norwegian naval watch-dog close on her heels.

The City of Flint was sighted off Lodingen light at 11 a. m. (4 a. m. C.S.T.) while steaming close behind a Norwegian ship, believed to be the 1,170-ton destroyer Slepner, which escorted the captured American vessel out of Tromsø waters yesterday.

The appearance of the City of Flint off Loringen on the inland route down one of the world's most broken coasts was taken as an indication that the German prize crew had requested and obtained permission to move in Norwegian territorial waters.

Washington — (AP) — The United States asked both Britain and Germany today to avoid any action which would imperil unnecessarily the captive American crew aboard the freighter City of Flint, now somewhere in the blockaded North sea bound for Germany.

While the American request did not ask precautions against any specific action it was learned that two eventualities were most feared by officials:

First, that the German prize crew might blow up the vessel if British warships attempted to capture her.

Second, that the British might sink the ship.

The latter possibility was held by most officials to be less likely, as it was believed the British would prefer to take the vessel which was carrying a cargo to England when the Germans seized her two weeks ago.

The state department instructed Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy in London and Alexander C. Kirk, United States charge d'affaires in Berlin, to ask the British and German governments to avoid exposing the American crew to unnecessary danger.

In connection with official fears of some perilous occurrence it was recalled here that the radio operator of the City of Flint, who slipped ashore at Tromsø, Norway when the ship first reached there more than a week ago, related that members of the German prize crew said they were planting explosives with the intention of blowing her up if necessary to avoid her falling into the hands of the British.

Shoots Self After He Threatened Wife's Life

Juneau, Wis. — (AP) — Sheriff Harold Hammer said today that Henry Gessner, 42, shot and killed himself with a rifle after threatening to kill his estranged wife and lying in wait for her nearly three hours yesterday afternoon.

Gessner turned his weapon on himself as officers arrived to make him into custody, Hammer said.

Gessner, released from the Winnebago State hospital recently, went to Leroy, where Mrs. Gessner lived with their four children, to attempt a reconciliation, the sheriff said.

Gessner attempted to drag her into his car, then took up his rifle in front of her home when she eluded him.

Disclose Sinking of Ship After 'Explosion'

London — (AP) — Sinking of the British steamer Cairn Mona, 4,665 tons by an "explosion" was disclosed today when 41 survivors were put ashore. Three were missing. A survivor said the blast came without warning.

The jury interrupted its deliberations last night to ask for a review of the testimony by a member of the syndicate. In the present trial the state contended Salen helped organize the syndicate.

In his charge to the jury, Judge Van Pelt said it was not necessary for the state to have proved that each statement made by Salen in last year's conspiracy trial amounted to perjury. Satisfaction of guilt on any one individual statement was all that was necessary, he said.

In closing arguments, Winfred C. Zabel, a special prosecutor, termed Salen a "sly and foxy lawyer."

Lawrence J. Brody of the defense said Salen was a victim of vengeance and that it was improbable Salen would commit the offenses charged by the state.

Quiz Witness Is Seized in Slaying Case

McCuistion Arrested in Connection With New Orleans Killing

INQUIRY IS PLANNED

Justice Department to Determine if Rights Have Been Violated

Washington — (AP) — Immediately after he stepped down from the witness stand of the Dies committee, husky William McCuistion sailor and one-time minor communist official, was taken into custody today by police in connection with a New Orleans slaying.

Washington authorities had been requested by New Orleans police yesterday to hold McCuistion for questioning in connection with the killing Sept. 17 of Phillip Carey, an official of the National Maritime union at New Orleans. McCuistion formerly served as an officer of the N. M. U. at New Orleans.

The request that the brawny, big-voiced witness be held reached here yesterday after he had left the capitol but today the Dies committee investigating un-American activities turned him over to Lieutenant Horace Lineburg, head of the un-American squad of the Washington Detective bureau.

Would Guard Rights
Just prior to this action the committee adopted a resolution asking that McCuistion be taken to the civil liberties section of the department of justice for an investigation to determine whether his civil liberties had been violated.

Some committee members charged there had been an effort to intimidate McCuistion in connection with his testimony to the committee.

Chairman Dies (D-Texas) said that although there was a discrepancy in the spelling of the name of the witness and that of the man sought by New Orleans police "this man is ready to face any charges."

(Reports from New Orleans said the name appeared with three or four different spellings in police and union records there but that police had identified the Dies witness as the man they sought and that "McCuistion" was the correct spelling.)

Held as Fugitive
Lieutenant Lineburg said as he left the hearing room that he would take McCuistion to headquarters immediately and probably would go to the justice department within an hour.

"I will take this man to headquarters until I find out who we are to see at the justice department," Lineburg said. "He will be in our custody as a fugitive from justice at the request of the New Orleans police."

Lineburg declared the witness would be "around town for at least two days" and he would return him to the Dies committee for further questioning upon the request of the committee.

The lieutenant said that there was a question of extradition to Louisiana. Asked whether he would Turn to page 10 col. 5

Jury Deliberates In Salen's Trial

Still Deadlocked on Charges of Perjury, False Swearing

Waukesha — (AP) — A circuit court jury trying Herman R. Salen, former district attorney, on charges of perjury and false swearing, still was deadlocked at noon today after asking three times for reading of testimony.

The jury of five women and seven men deliberated five hours last night after receiving from the court a choice of three verdicts: Guilty of perjury, guilty of false swearing, or innocent. The jurors resumed their consideration at 9 o'clock this morning.

Salen, former district attorney of Waukesha county, was tried on charges of perjury and false swearing in his testimony given in July, 1938, when he and others were charged with conspiracy to violate the gambling laws. Eight members of a slot machine syndicate were convicted. Salen was acquitted.

The jury interrupted its deliberations last night to ask for a review of the testimony by a member of the syndicate. In the present trial the state contended Salen helped organize the syndicate.

In his charge to the jury, Judge Van Pelt said it was not necessary for the state to have proved that each statement made by Salen in last year's conspiracy trial amounted to perjury. Satisfaction of guilt on any one individual statement was all that was necessary, he said.

Lawrence J. Brody of the defense said Salen was a victim of vengeance and that it was improbable Salen would commit the offenses charged by the state.

Administration Leaders Win Test on Procedure In Acting on Neutrality

HOUSE LEADERS START WORK ON NEUTRALITY BILL

The administration's neutrality bill, passed by the senate after a four weeks' debate, was sent to a house of representatives whose leaders were hopeful of a final vote before the end of the week. Shown studying the measure before a meeting of the rules committee are, left to right: Representative Patrick Boland, Democratic whip; Representative A. J. Sabath, chairman of the rules committee; and Speaker William Bankhead.

Information Asked On Oil Purchase For State Roads

Commissioner on Stand as Research Division Resumes Inquiry

Madison — (AP) — State research investigators called today for more specific information from the state highway department on its policies concerning the purchase and testing of oils used on state roads.

The research division, headed by Director August Frey, resumed its investigation of the department with Thomas J. Pattison, a member of the highway commission, on the witness stand.

Pattison was recalled after Commissioner William E. O'Brien had been questioned yesterday by Legal Counsel Elmer Barlow upon the purchase of oil from a midwestern refining company which Barlow claimed was financially irresponsible and which he said furnished the state with a major part of its road oil.

O'Brien had testified it was "news" to him if this company was not backed by proper assets and that the firm had always fulfilled its contractual obligations.

Barlow and Frey sought to obtain from Pattison a statement whether the highway department made any "practical road tests" on the oil it bought.

When Pattison stated he did not know of any, Frey demanded that he be more specific.

The commissioner then stated that the highway commission, its maintenance engineers and other members of its staff made observations of the roads on which oil was used and it was the job of departmental chemists to see how the materials "stood up."

Barlow directed Pattison to produce all written specifications on which four types of oil purchased in 1935 were based.

400 Children Driven From Classrooms in Texas School Blast

Howe, Grayson County, Texas — (AP) — Four hundred school children, three of their number slightly injured, were driven from classrooms today by an explosion which raised the floor of one room six inches, but left the rest of the building untouched.

Jack Calloway, about 16, apparently sitting directly over the spot where the explosion centered, was cut and bruised. His fountain pen was blown against the ceiling, splattering it with ink.

Russell Bryant, Howe newspaper man, said gas accumulated under the floor of the one room apparently was ignited.

The blast recalled the explosion which killed 297 pupils and teachers at the London Consolidated school near New London, Texas, March 18, 1937.

Student Fatally Injured In Automobile Smashup

Fl. Atkinson — (AP) — Edward Jung, 18, of Jefferson, a sophomore at the University of Wisconsin, died in a hospital yesterday of injuries suffered in an automobile accident on Highway 26 near here Sunday.

Lewis Says Aids to Cabinet Members Tried to Organize Roosevelt Third Term Boom

Washington — (AP) — A charge by John L. Lewis that assistants of two cabinet members had tried to engineer a western conference to start a third term boom brought from Senator King (D-Utah) today a demand for a full report on the officials' activities.

In a letter last night to Governor Culbert L. Olson of California, Lewis declared that a January meeting of "progressive leaders" in 11 western states had been arranged by Norman N. Littell, assistant to Attorney General Murphy, and Marshall E. Dimock, second assistant secretary of labor.

Lewis said Labor's Non-Partisan league, which he heads, would have no part in the conference because, among other things, labor had been excluded from "making suggestions for a legitimate program."

Friends said, however, that Lewis' letter indicated nothing about his views on another term for President Roosevelt. The CIO leader expressed doubt that "the president has knowledge of or would approve the plans of those over-zealous individuals responsible for this program."

New Rule Drafted For State Courts

Supreme Tribunal Permits Pre-Trial Conferences To Speed Suits

Madison — (AP) — The state supreme court has established a new rule for all state courts, effective Jan. 1, under which a judge may call attorneys for litigants into a pre-trial conference to simplify procedure and expedite action in lawsuits.

Explained as an attempt to "narrow the controversy and save the time of the court," the rule will mark an important legal innovation for Wisconsin. Notice of the order was issued to all state courts yesterday.

It provides that the trial judge may direct the attorneys in a lawsuit to meet before the trial and consider the following matters:

Simplification of the issues. Necessity or desirability of amendments to the pleadings. Possibility of obtaining admissions of facts and of documents to avoid unnecessary proof.

Limitation of the number of expert witnesses. Advisability of a preliminary reference of issues for findings to be used as evidence when the trial is to be by jury.

Such other questions as may aid in disposing of the case. After the conference the judge shall issue an order reciting agreements reached and the order shall control the subsequent course of action at the trial.

Thief Escapes After Gun Battle In Attempted Station Burglary

Gunfire was exchanged by a burglar and Carl Ebert at the Ebert Service station, 1210 N. Badger avenue, about 3 o'clock this morning after Ebert discovered the man in the station.

When Ebert ordered the burglar to come out of the building, the man broke the glass in the door, poked a revolver through and fired at Ebert. Ebert returned the fire with a shotgun. The man, who had gained entrance through a window on the southwest side, climbed out of the window and slumped to the ground.

Ebert, who was partly dressed, thought he wounded the man but did not approach him, waiting for help which his wife was trying to summon from his home. When help failed to come, Ebert dashed to the home and in the meantime the burglar escaped. Ebert said there was a car parked near the station and it is believed the bandit drove west on Highway 10.

Nothing was taken from the station, Ebert said. He was awakened when the burglar broke a window to gain entrance. Police are investigating.

House Votes to Send Measure to Joint Committee

OPPOSITION FAILS

Debate on Instructions to Conference to Take Two Days

Washington — (AP) — Administration neutrality forces, advocating arms embargo repeal, won their first test of strength in the house today when their chosen procedure for considering the administration neutrality measure was adopted.

The test came on a "rule" providing that the bill be sent to a joint senate-house conference to compose differences between senate- and house-approved neutrality measures. The former contains no arms embargo while the latter, passed last session does.

This action to send the bill to conference came a few moments after the house beat down, 237 to 177, a Republican attempt aimed at opening up the legislation to house amendments.

Foes of the embargo repeal still may get an opportunity to effect changes in the legislation through instructing the house members of the conference committee as to what they should insist upon in the negotiations with the senate.

Indications were the house would devote the next two days to debating the question of instructing the conferees. An agreement as to the time was not reached immediately, however.

Won't Change Votes

"What I or anyone else might say will not change a single vote," declared Chairman Sabath (D-Ill.) of the rules committee.

In blithe disregard, Representative Horton (R-Wyo.) retorted that approval of the procedure laid down for the house by its leaders "spells war."

To an almost full membership and packed galleries, Sabath called the procedure decided on by the leadership "most liberal" while Representative Taylor (R-Tenn.) said it was "arbitrary and a subterfuge."

Loud boos from the Republican side greeted a remark by Sabath which, in effect, charged Representative Fish (D-N.Y.), a leader of the fight to retain the arms embargo, with aiding Hitler.

"You gentlemen on the other side," Sabath said, "are making a mistake in trying to follow a gentleman who has been advising us wrongly before and who has been trying to deliver us to Hitler on his last visit to Europe."

While in Europe shortly before the war broke out Fish proposed a sort of pre-war armistice with all powers laying down their arms and seeking a solution at the conference table.

Speaker Bankhead told reporters that prospects for house approval of the measure were "all right."

The administration sought to have the house adopt a preliminary procedure which would complete action on the senate neutrality bill before the weekend. Embargo advocates, after trying unsuccessfully to block the proposal in the rules committee yesterday, carried their fight to the floor.

Representative Fish (R-N.Y.), leader of the embargo forces, called the procedure a "vicious gag," contending that it would not let the members offer any amendments to the senate legislation.

Chairman Sabath (D-Ill.), asserted the bill was being handled in the normal way, and pointed out that the house itself could decide how long it wished the debate to continue.

Sees No Major Change

Representative Republican Pennsylvanian, Democratic whip, announced that on the basis of a more-than-half-completed poll of Democratic members, he was certain no major change would be made in the senate measure. But Fish said there was a chance that administration plans could be upset.

Under the procedure approved by the rules committee after a stormy hearing, the house would vote on setting up a senate-house committee which would seek a compromise between:

1. The senate bill repealing the embargo on the sale to belligerents of arms, ammunition and implements of war.

2. A bill passed by the house last summer retaining the embargo on arms and ammunition, but permitting sale of implements of war. Some members interpret the latter as authorizing the sale of planes.

Both measures would restrict American shipping by establishing "cash and carry" trade with warring nations.

Administration supporters believe that the joint committee would give prompt approval to the senate bill repealing the embargo. Fish announced, however, that he would try to get the house to instruct the conferees to retain the embargo on arms and ammunition.

Gruszka Accuses Frey of Delays In Cutting Costs

Assemblyman Charges 'Many Unnecessary Increases' Made in Budget

Mosinee.—Assemblyman Anthony Gruszka (R) declared today that August Frey, director of the new state department, should "quit abiding and get to work on government costs."

Asserting that "many unnecessary increases" were made in the state budget and that in some instances increased aid was given to private organizations, Gruszka charged that Frey and other members of Governor Heil's staff were responsible for the unbalanced budget.

Opportunity. Deaf Rooms in Halloween Celebrations Today

The opportunity department and the deaf room at Morgan school celebrated Halloween today.

A play, "The Parker Family in Mischievous," was presented by opportunity department students for their classmates in the auditorium this afternoon. After the play, the students went down to the gymnasium to play games and wound up by eating a lunch prepared in their own home economics class.

The stage in the auditorium was attractively decorated for the play. The students in the deaf school had their two rooms decorated in traditional orange and black, with pumpkin faces and grinning black cats, and celebrated this afternoon with games.

Milk Price Law to Create Problem in Outagamie County

Would Regulate Appleton Market but Exempt Surrounding Area

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau Madison.—Administration of the new state fluid milk price control law in two of the four principal counties in the Fox river valley is a task which the state department of agriculture does not contemplate with pleasure, Director Ralph E. Ammon indicated here today.

Ammon expressed the opinion that the new statute evolved in the 1939 session of the legislature will not stand a court test for constitutionality on account of its restriction as for certain population classes, and said that even if the courts do sustain it, it will be practically impossible to enforce.

The law says that milk price fixing will be authorized for counties with populations of 70,000 or more. In those counties the whole county would be covered by the price orders. It also provides that in any other counties below that population mark, those cities of a population of 10,000 or more will be covered notwithstanding the fact that the neighboring areas will be exempt.

Unprecedented Situation

Thus in Outagamie and Manitowish counties unprecedented situations have arisen, conditions which may make it impracticable to attempt to apply the terms of the milk price law in those areas, the state official hinted.

Outagamie county has less than 70,000 people—the 1930 census is specified in the statute—while the city of Appleton has more than 10,000. While a milk price order made by the board for Appleton, there will be drafted to prevent cut-price milk stands or farmer deliveries immediately outside the city, Ammon pointed out. Under the old law the price orders included adjacent territory, and even surrounding communities, such as Little Chute and Kaukauna.

The problem will be duplicated in Manitowish, and other counties in other sections of the state. Manitowish and Two Rivers have more than 10,000 population, but the county has only about 60,000. Waukesha county, one of the principal milk producing areas of the state, will be exempt, while the city of Waukesha will be covered. Kenosha will be covered, while the rest of the county will be outside of the price control area.

No Problem

In Brown and Winnebago counties there will be no problem, because both have more than 70,000 residents.

While Ammon said that his department will promptly begin holding hearings preparatory to drafting new orders under the new law, it was plain that he and his staff view their task with misgivings.

He also announced that L. G. Kuenning, chief of the department's dairy division, who has been the administrator of the milk law for several years, will in the future confine his activities to his dairy division job. A new man will head the milk price control work, according to Ammon.

Forbes Mines Closed; Known Ore Removed

Iron River, Mich.—Operations were shut down permanently today at the Forbes mine, which in 28 years has produced a field of iron ore estimated at more than 2,000,000 tons.

The North Range Mining Co., of Negaunee, operator of the mine since 1915, is abandoning the property. Fifty men were laid off. Captain Harry Sleeman, an employee of the mine since it opened in 1911, said all ore known to lie within the 80-acre tract has been removed.

The Jones and Laughlin Steel company operated the mine prior to 1935.

Arrest 10 Men as Suspects of Gang Of Safe Crackers

Detroit.—Ten men were in custody today in Detroit, Saginaw, Flint and Pontiac as city and state police investigated what they said was an organized band of safecrackers operating throughout the state.

Inspector Edward Gaff, chief of the Detroit police holdup squad, said he believed the gang was responsible for a hundred or more crimes, including the fatal shooting of a night watchman and the robbing of another in robberies during recent months.

Frank Nelson, chief of detectives in Pontiac, said a Saginaw locksmith, George R. Mac Connell, 49, had admitted furnishing the gang with detailed plans of safes. Nelson quoted Mac Connell as saying he gave the information to the gang when they threatened him.

Pontiac police said they had been notified by authorities in Beloit, Wis., and Waukegan, Ill., that police in those cities wanted to question the suspects.

Police Chief George T. Prim said today he would contact the Detroit police to determine whether the safe cracking episode at the Appleton High school when $400 was stolen.

of a quandary about just when to observe Thanksgiving day.

The attorney general has ruled that both the president and the governor may legally proclaim a holiday.

Governor Heil has proclaimed the last Thursday of the month, the traditional date, on which to observe Thanksgiving.

Mayor Goodland in a statement to the people of Appleton urged residents to fall in line with Governor Heil's proclamation in an effort to make observance of the day uniform in Wisconsin.

Kenneth Corbett, secretary of the Appleton Chamber of Commerce, said the chamber would prefer Thanksgiving on Nov. 23, but would fall in line with the governor and mayor in their proclamations.

Federal buildings in the city, such as the postoffice, will be closed on Nov. 23, the day proclaimed by President Roosevelt.

PERUVIAN FLIERS OFF ON LONG NON-STOP FLIGHT

Two Peruvian brothers, Humberto (left) of the air force, and Victor Gallino of the army, took off from New York on a proposed non-stop flight to Lima, Peru, a distance of 4,014 miles. Prisoner Changes Story of Slaying While in Airplane

Admits He Lied About Quarrel With Instructor Before Shooting

Macon, Mo.—In a new account of the murder in an airplane of Carl Bivens, Brookfield, Mo., flight instructor, Prosecuting Attorney Vincent S. Moody said today.

Earnest "Larry" Pletch, 29-year-old amateur pilot, had admitted that he shot and killed Bivens without apparent reason 5,000 feet in the air.

"I just don't know why I killed him, but I did," Moody quoted Pletch as saying.

The Frankfort, Ind., farmhand, who always had been "crazy" about airplanes, said he had taken flying lessons from Bivens, "as a stall" to steal the plane and use it to prove some of his inventions.

Pletch admitted, Moody said, that he had lied when he told Indiana authorities, after his arrest Saturday night, that Bivens had planned to steal the borrowed plane with him and fly to Mexico. He said in that statement that he shot Bivens during a mid-air quarrel when Bivens "backed out."

Describing Bivens' fatal flight, Pletch related, according to the prosecutor, that after 40 minutes the plane had reached an altitude of 5,000 feet and was "zipping along."

"Carl was telling me that I had natural ability and how I should follow that line," Pletch was quoted as saying.

"I had a revolver in my pocket and, without saying a word to him, I took it out of my overalls and I fired a bullet into the back of his head. He never said a word. He never knew what struck him."

"His head fell forward and hit the throttle—there are dual controls in a training ship—and threw it wide open. His feet wedged up on the controls as his body slumped down in the seat. We were both strapped in with safety belts."

"The ship began to pitch and then to dive. It went crazy and I remembered reading about a dying man 'stiffening' at the controls, and then I fired another shot into the back of his head."

Pletch said he pulled the ship out of the dive at about 1,500 feet and landed, but, because he saw people nearby, longed off at once. He landed again near Cherry Box, Mo., and dragged the body into a thicket, where he left it.

Moody said he would file murder charges against Pletch in the mid-air slaying.

Winnie Ruth Judd Caught as She Leaves Attache's Home On Arizona Hospital Grounds

Phoenix, Ariz.—(P)—Winnie Ruth Judd, "literally a wild woman," who sobbed and screamed and threw things until given a sedative to quiet her, was back in the Arizona State Hospital for the Insane today, carefully guarded.

The mad trunk killer, dirty, unkempt and half-starved, who said she saw "horrible things" during her six days of freedom, was caught last night leaving an attache's home on the hospital grounds which she had entered to obtain food.

Her shoes were gone. There were holes in her stockings. Bruises and scratches on her legs indicated she had fallen or bumped into objects while wandering in the dark. One ankle was sprained and she had fashioned a brace from a girdle.

In a pillow slip she carried bread crumbs, several cans of soup, spaghetti, a glass of jelly, and a near-empty green orange from which she had sucked the juice.

The new frock and shoes when she wore when she fled the hospital last Tuesday night had been exchanged for an old, brown coat and drab blue hat, pulled down over her ears.

Hidden in Cornfield

Mrs. Judd, who in 1931 killed Agnes Ann LeRoy and Hedvig Samuelson and stuffed their bodies into trunks which were shipped to Los Angeles, apparently had been in the vicinity of Phoenix since her escape.

She told Dr. Louis J. Saxe, hospital superintendent, she had been hiding in a cornfield, about one and one-half miles from the main building, and in a cemetery on the hospital grounds.

Sheriff Lon Jordan said, however, he had traced her movements and that she apparently spent most of her time hiding in one side of a duplex, about eight blocks from the home of her parents, the Rev. and Mrs. H. J. McKinnell, whom she visited a few minutes after her escape.

Jordan said Mrs. Judd spent the first night in an orange grove. Wednesday night through Saturday night at the duplex, where she carved her initials, "WRJ," and the date "10-29-39" on a window sill. Sunday night she visited a minister in Temple, nine miles east of Phoenix, and spent three hours at his house.

The minister attempted to return the insane blonde to the hospital but permitted her to flee when she threatened suicide. He notified Jordan.

Returns to Hospital

Attendants said they surrounded Mrs. Judd last night as she left the residence of Mel Larson, hospital engineer. When she saw escape was impossible, she said Mrs. Judd walked to the door of the ward, from which she fled, and knocked. Nurses admitted her and rushed her to Dr. Saxe's office.

"Well, here I am," she said when Dr. Saxe walked in.

To Governor Benson Jones she said, "I told you I would come back, and I did. I kept my word to you. I wanted to see my father. I saw him and talked with him, then I came back and gave myself up like I said I would."

When questioned about how she had lived and eluded searches, Dr. Saxe said she became hysterical and sobbed and shouted. She threw pencils and other objects picked up from a desk.

"She was literally a wild woman," Dr. Saxe said. She was given sedatives and put to bed.

City of Flint Is Reported Following Norwegian Coast With Norse Cruiser in Wake

the safety of the American crew of the freighter City of Flint.

Kirk, on instructions from Washington, called at the foreign office to deliver his message.

Meanwhile the City of Flint, a German steamer seized by the German navy as a prize of war, was heading down the Norwegian coast for a German port under command of a Nazi crew.

The German prize crew was given an even chance in shipping circles to escape detection of the blockade-dodging voyage of the American vessel along the rugged coast of Norway.

It was authoritatively said today that no further information will be divulged on the German side regarding the ship.

"We now come dangerously close to provisions of the law regarding treason," these sources said.

Since it was believed the City of Flint was headed for Hamburg, it was expected that the United States consulate at that city handle details of prize-court proceedings when, and if the City of Flint arrives at that port.

Many Hiding Places

Thousands of islands and numerous fjords offered places for experienced navigators to hide temporarily from British warships, especially if the City of Flint traveled mostly by night. Moreover, fog and low visibility were on the side of her captors.

All Saints' Day to Be Celebrated at Special Services

Masses will begin at an early hour in order to accommodate working men and women since all Catholics are obliged to hear mass on that day. All Souls' day, Thursday, although not a holiday of obligation, is a day of special devotion for Catholics who offer special prayers for their deceased relatives and friends. Each priest is allowed to say three masses on that day.

A "toties quoties" indulgence or plenary indulgence may be gained by anyone who goes to confession, receives communion and makes a visit to the church between Wednesday noon and Thursday night. This indulgence is applicable to the souls in Purgatory.

St. Mary church will have masses on Wednesday morning at 5, 6, 7, 8, 9 and 10:30. On Thursday, masses will be at 5, 5:30, 6, 7, 7:30 and 8. High masses being at 6 and 8. "Everlasting Punishment" was the subject of the lesson-sermon for Sunday at First Church of Christ, Scientist. The following passage was read from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures": "God will never punish man for doing right, for honest labor, or for deeds of kindness, though they expose him to fatigue, cold, heat, contagion. Let us remember that the eternal law of right, though it can never annul the law which makes sin its own executioner, exempts man from all penalties but those due for wrongdoing."

Church Pastors Will Meet Here Thursday

Eau Claire.—A series of four one-day conferences for pastors of Congregational and Christian churches, which began yesterday at Whitewater, resumed here today. One conference will be held at Boscobel tomorrow and another at Appleton Thursday.

The Rev. Frederick L. Fagley of New York, secretary of the Congregational commission on evangelism, said the purpose was to make ministers aware of the church's task in light of problems of the day.

Victim Is Improving

Milwaukee.—Mrs. Harold U. Brown of Stevens Point, injured in an automobile collision near here last Friday, was reported in fair condition today.

The accident occurred at the intersection of Highways 100 and 41 about 5:30 p. m. Mrs. Brown suffered a fracture of the pelvis. Her husband, who was driving, escaped injury.

The physician attending Mrs. Brown said her condition was serious for several days but that she had rallied and had a good chance for recovery.

Mobilization of Huntsmen in Germany Hints at Threat of Disaster in British Blockade

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE

New York.—Mobilization of Germany's hunters to increase the food supply of the country gives an almost whimsical view of the potential disaster in the English blockade. It isn't meant to be fanciful, of course, and it's a smart move in view of the abundance of deer and small game in West Prussia and the newly annexed Polish territory.

It's not hard to guess the author of this novel scheme. Surely it can be none other than Herr Hitler's second in command—Field Marshal Hermann Goering, official chief huntsman by virtue of being Nazi Germany's most famous sportsman.

Goering is an eager hunter and fisherman. I had a bird's eye view of a year ago of his magnificent preserve at Berchtesgaden, in the Bavarian Alps, where he has a lordly home near the mountain retreat of the fuhrer. Undoubtedly Goering will take a hand in keeping the wolf from Germany's door with his sports gun.

But Goering, as economic dictator of the reich, would be the last to treat lightly the sea-trap that caught Germany two decades ago. He must recognize it as the most potent weapon that the allies can turn against the Fatherland.

Not Spectacular Fight

There is a grim fascination in watching the test of brute strength between England and Germany as the Britons try to tighten their blockade into a complete stranglehold about the fiercely resisting reich.

It isn't spectacular, this conflict which is being waged beneath the cloak of the fall fogs that blanket the English channel and the North sea. But it is the most vital war operation going forward at this moment, for upon success or failure of the blockade may depend the outcome of the European upheaval.

Both sides are claiming the advantage thus far and Nazi officialdom declares that the blockade did not break Germany this time as it did in the World War. The Nazis are expecting to remedy any shortage in supplies through their new-found brotherhood with Russia—an expectation which time alone can justify or refute.

Unfortunately, if a blockade is successful it means hunger for civilians. The approach of starvation was the immediate cause of Germany's collapse in the last war—a fact I shall never forget. I was with the British army of occupation in Germany after the armistice and saw the results.

Food Shortage

It took the English two years to squeeze Germany badly. By the winter of 1918, however, the Fatherland—though Austria were suffering terrible distress, and it was only the German victory over Rumania and the occupation of the Ukraine which saved the situation temporarily. Saved stores of grain then became available to the hungry Teutons, and they hung on for another two years.

When we got into Germany just after the cease-fire there was a shocking shortage of both food and clothing. The burgomasters, for the matter, Fats were almost unheard of, and because of this there were many people who had never seen soap for years. A cake of soap was literally worth more than a handful of money, and was sometimes used for barter trade.

Apologies of this situation was an experience I had in Cologne. During a conference with war correspondents, the burgomasters, a haughty person, demanded why the allies weren't rushing food and clothing to Germany.

Acting as spokesman, I told him the allies were too busy feeding their own people who had been rendered homeless by German devastation.

"That isn't true," he flared. "I'm telling you, Mr. Burgomaster. I replied with asperity, 'that I've recently come from the zone where long lines of refugees were tramping along the roads, and many of them were dying by the wayside.'"

My colleagues burst into applause. The burgomaster flushed and started to retort, but his secretary whispered in his ear and he held his peace.

Peace Is Keynote At Grange Meeting

Michigan Organization Will Hear Gov. Dickenson Tomorrow

Traverse City, Mich.—A plea for peace keyed the opening of business sessions of the 68th annual convention of the Michigan state Grange here today.

Charles M. Crane, 80, past president of the state veterinarians' association, and pioneer in cattle tuberculosis research, who died yesterday. He was a son of Dr. Lemuel Crane, also a veterinarian.

Pleas for more generous state subsidy of the public school system, criticism of reciprocal trade treaties that agitate farmers' uneasiness and the perennial demand for temperance already were prepared for presentation to resolutions committees.

Wednesday the convention will elect members of the executive committee, the only election contests scheduled at this off-year gathering. Other officers were elected last year to serve until 1940 convention. Adoption of resolutions will close the gathering Thursday.

SCHAEFER'S GROCERY

Letter Reveals Dispute Between Gruska and Frey

Status of Veterinarian Prompted Attack on Administration, Claim

Madison—(4)—Differences between Assemblyman Anthony Gruska (R) Mosinee and the Heil administration rose to the surface today following publication of a letter by August Frey, director of the state division of departmental research, claiming Gruska's attack on the Heil administration was inspired by the assemblyman's failure to obtain reinstatement of a man whose name had been removed from the list of accredited veterinarians.

Frey took cognizance of the charges against the administration in a letter to Gruska. He said the assemblyman had threatened to "issue a statement to the press" unless Frey saw to it the veterinarian was re-certified by the department of agriculture for cattle tuberculosis and Bangs disease tests.

As the letter went out, District Attorney Norris E. Maloney, of Dane county, awaited an official reply to a telegram he sent Gruska inviting the latter to confer on his charges that a lobbyist had offered him $200 for his vote on the administration's bill to reorganize the public service commission.

Refers to Newspapers
Frey's letter spoke of newspaper quotes "making reference to what you termed a dictatorial attitude toward agricultural questions displayed by myself as chief of the new research bureau."

The director asserted the Marathon county veterinarian in question has been dismissed and the federal government had refused to accept service from him because he had failed to abide by regulations.

The letter said his name was removed from the accredited list last April but after repeating requests he was reinstated so farmers could employ him at their own expense, but it again became necessary to remove his name because of practices not in keeping with the department's plan of disease control.

Declaring he did not believe Gruska would have interfered for the veterinarian had he known the circumstances, Frey said:

"I regret very much that the failure of a state department to approve official misconduct should be the occasion of an outburst, such as the press quotes, from a responsible member of the legislature, but however that may be, it is the fixed policy of this administration to safeguard the interests of the farmers and taxpayers of the state against the improper practices here in set forth."

Lime Project to be Reopened Wednesday In Calumet County

Chilton—Miss Mercedes Crans-ton, district supervisor of the WPA professional and service division, recently notified A. L. McMahon, county agent, that the lime project in Calumet county will be resumed Wednesday, and authorized reopening of the WPA soil testing project in the county.

Under the soil testing program farmers may have as many samples of their soil tested as they wish, McMahon said, and in this way they will get a general idea of the fertility of the soil. The testing program will be with the lime project giving the farmers a chance to test their soil for lime deficiency. The lime will be available to the farmers with no charge for labor.

Over 400 samples of soil were tested under the last WPA testing project in the county. Ben Wagner, the tester, reported many of the tests showed that soils were deficient in lime and several showed lack of phosphorous and potash. The testing is under the direction of Prof. H. H. Hall of the soil department of the college of agriculture.

DONALD BRUCH

If Dies Can Name Communists It's About Time He Does It

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER

Washington—The backstage explanation of the shrill noises currently coming from Congressman Martin Dies is that he is trying to stir public pressure on congress for a new appropriation so that his investigation of un-American activities may continue after January.

Most real believers in democracy consider it especially necessary now to expose and root out subversive alien influences. That makes all the more tragic the methods being used by Chairman Dies, which involve the smearing of the Roosevelt administration.

In order to arouse the public sufficiently to press the house to vote a new appropriation—which would not be a matter even for debate if the investigation of un-American activities had been conducted with reasonable judgment—Chairman Dies is undertaking to raise the national gooseflesh. He wants to establish that communists infest the Roosevelt administration. He wants to "reveal the identity of the parlor pets of Moscow who plot the overthrow of our government over their teacups." He says "I do know that the federal government has communists in key positions."

Nothing, he adds, will deter him from exposing them. Well, what's stopping Congressman Dies from exposing these communists? If, as he says, he "knows" there are communists in key positions here, let's have the facts right out now and get rid of them. That would be the best service he could render. Chairman Dies thus has it within his power to root out overnight these communist influences. Let him do that job and anything he wants is his. He doesn't have to beat around the bush. Public support for him would be overwhelming.

Chairman Dies may have the goods about communists being in key positions around here. But he also may be a victim of his own imagination—or of someone else's. About a year ago he permitted his committee to be a sounding board for a smearing attempt to label Frank Murphy, then governor of Michigan, as a communist at heart.

Yet as attorney general, Mr. Murphy is so determined to root out subversive alien influences that he pinks are beginning to call him a red hunter. President wouldn't be sympathetic to Reds. To anyone with the slightest knowledge of Mr. Roosevelt's personal feelings toward the Soviet regime, the idea that he could be sympathetic to communism or to having any of Moscow's "parlor pets" around in responsible key positions is ridiculous. Mr. Roosevelt's favorite among his ambassadors is William C. Bullitt at Paris. Wasn't it Bullitt who induced Mr. Roosevelt to recognize Soviet Russia and who became the first American ambassador to the communist regime? Yes. And the most bitter critic of the Soviet regime is Ambassador Bullitt.

From the day we recognized Moscow, we have had nothing but friction there. That Mr. Roosevelt would countenance any responsible person in his administration playing the Soviet game doesn't add up to the facts and personal feelings of officials here.

Dies Seems to be Working on G.O.P. Job
The tragedy of the Dies committee is that instead of concentrating on subversive aliens, it is wading all about the lot and is trying to do the job which the Republicans tried to do in the 1936 presidential campaign—hang the communist label on the Roosevelt administration. The Dies committee has a great opportunity to strip off this hokum and make distinct in the public mind the difference between alien communism and progressive and liberal democracy with the communist label.

What Dies is doing comes down to the same thing that Steinbeck complains of in "Grapes of Wrath," when an employer damns a radical as a blankety-blank "who asks for 30 cents an hour when we are paying 25."

Congressman Dies doesn't, or won't, recognize the difference between communists and democrats who believe that self-government should throw its weight toward bringing about in America a life more liveable for everyone.

Chairman Dies ought to go to Russia and look it over. Then he'd know mighty quickly that what the Roosevelt administration has tried to do isn't communism but the opposite. Meantime if Congressman Dies knows there are communists around here, let's get down to cases and the sooner the better.

Heide, Graass to Speak at Annual Farm Group Meet

Wisconsin Agriculture Council Event Scheduled This Week

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
Madison—Herman Heide of Neenah, president of the Wisconsin Council of Agriculture, and Henry Graass, Green Bay circuit judge, will be among the speakers at the annual conference and exposition here of the council this week. The event will be held Thursday, Friday and Saturday, according to Milo K. Swanton, executive secretary.

Senator Alexander Wiley of Wisconsin (R), has already accepted an invitation to speak at a banquet session of the conference, while officers today were awaiting final word from Senator Robert M. La Follette (P).

Better rural living will receive emphasis at the conference as a major objective in American life. Heide will deliver his annual president's message Thursday, while Graass' address on youth's environment will be a feature of the evening meeting.

One of the significant features of the convention program will be a report by L. E. Gooding, member of the Wisconsin employment relations board, on the operations of the new "Wisconsin peace act," the new state labor relations law.

Gooding's speech will be the first public report on the law which was drafted and introduced by the Wisconsin Council of Agriculture, and which was passed with Republican administration support only after an historically bitter fight with the representatives of Wisconsin organized labor. AFL and CIO Union leaders joined hands during the 1938 session to battle the council's labor bill without success.

Agricultural financing, development of markets, new machinery, merchandising and marketing of dairy products, plans for national dairy promotion, the problem of the farm surplus, and other currently important subjects will be discussed at the meetings. Randall C. Swanson, former Out-

Consider Firm's Forest Land Major Industrial Development

(Post-Crescent Madison Bureau)
Madison—The Wisconsin conservation commission, after an inspection of the extensive forest plantation developed by the Nekosia-Edwards Paper company of Wisconsin Rapids, has hailed it as one of the state's most important industrial developments, and a possible answer to the lure of southern states for Wisconsin's pulp and paper business.

The Wisconsin river valley paper firm has already acquired 30,000 acres of forest lands which are producing pine and spruce crops and is making additions of 3,000 acres a year to its properties, the commission found and reported today. Aim of the company, the state officials were told, is a plantation area of 125,000 acres.

gami county agricultural agent and now county agent in Milwaukee, will discuss cooperative farm purchasing, according to Swanton.

Ten years ago, a bulletin from the conservation department said today, the first forest field day of the company was held. At that time the trees were freshly planted, just visible over the weeds. Conservation officials on the inspection trip this year found trees reaching a height of 25 feet. Some specimens showed a growth of more than 2 feet in a single year.

Maintains Nursery
The company maintains its own nursery to produce small pines and spruces for tree planting purposes. Acquired lands which carry undesirable types of trees, such as oaks, are cleared by permitting mill employees to take out supplies of wood for fuel. Fire losses, as the result of a system of fire lanes for protection purposes, have been small to date.

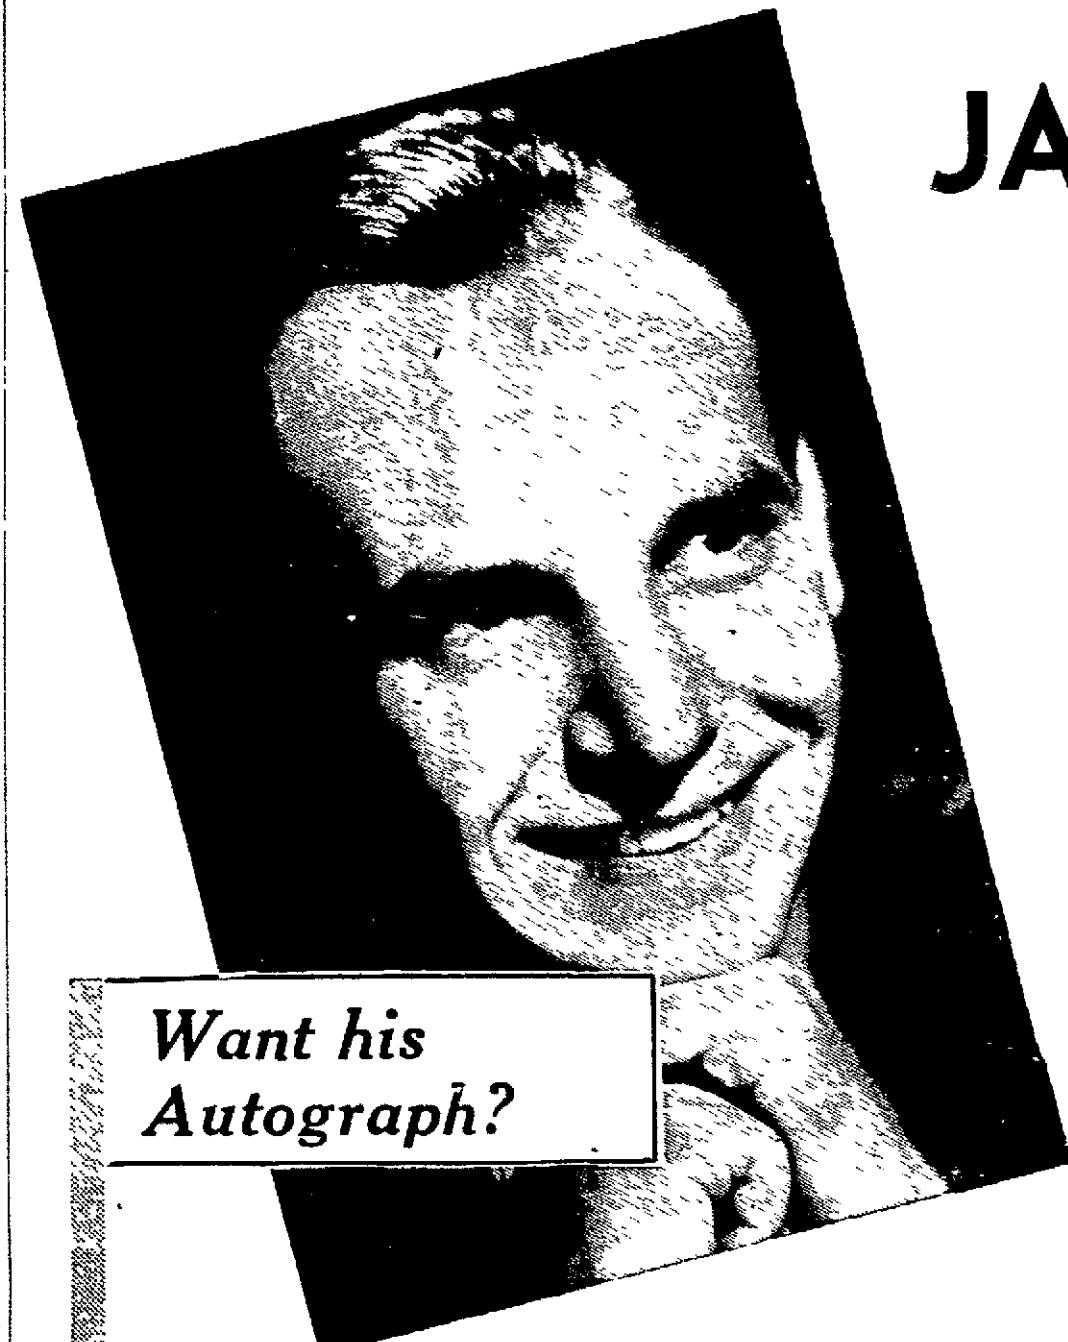

According to F. G. Kilp, former member of the state conservation department's staff who is the company's forester, reports that the company will harvest the first of its planted pulp supply in 15 years but will continue to buy part of its pulp wood, using its own plantations as a reservoir of raw material as needed.

The Better Way to Correct Constipation

One way to treat constipation is to endure it first and cure it afterward. The other way is to avoid having it by getting at its cause. So why not save yourself those dull headachy days, plus the inevitable trips to the medicine chest, if you can do it by a simple common-sense "ounce of prevention?"

If your trouble, like that of millions, is due to lack of "bulk" in the diet, "the better way" is to eat Kellogg's All-Bran. This crunchy, toasted, ready-to-eat cereal has just the "bulk" you need. If you eat it every day—and drink plenty of water—you can not only get regular but keep regular, day after day and month after month! All-Bran is made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek. Sold by every grocer.

Restitution Ordered In Funds Collection

Waupaca — William Ryan and Maurice A. Johnson Green Bay, pleaded guilty Monday to a charge of getting advertising for a directory without proper authorization, before Judge A. M. Scheller. The court ordered the plea withdrawn and had a plea of not guilty entered, upon the condition that Ryan and Johnson make restitution in full not later than fifteen days from Oct. 30. In the event complete restitution is not made within the time limited, the court instructed the two men that the sheriff "will come and get them."

A third companion, Harry T. Mahoney, Green Bay, appeared before Judge Scheller on Oct. 23, on similar charges. His plea of guilty was not accepted and upon order of the court to return one-third of the funds he was charged with collecting, Judge Scheller dismissed the case.

Both Sides Bitter in Fight Over Refugees of Dust Bowl

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER

San Francisco — In the whole bitter dispute over the wretched state of the fugitives from the dust bowl who came to California during the years 1933 to 1937, the two extremes of opinion are able to agree on only one point. That is, this was a huge and historic migration which no state of the American union, no country on earth, however rich, roomy and hospitable, could have made comfortable. It was an enormous, unexpected descent of poor relations, but Carey McWilliams, chief of immigration and housing in the state government, who recently turned out a book on the subject, called factories in the field, says "It has been estimated that 221,000 have entered the state since 1933," and Roy M. Pike, who operates one of the biggest farms in California and insists that such farming is unprofitable, puts the figures at 400,000.

They are as far apart as that on everything else, but even if you accept McWilliams' figure or split the difference the obvious fact remains, on which both agree, that these people came so suddenly and in such numbers and in such destitution that they could not be absorbed evenly into the agriculture of California or any other state. No industrial state could have received so many immigrants in family units, the children and the old people, all of them broke and many of them in bad health without distress to both guests and hosts.

McWilliams says they were lured to California so the big farm corporations could have a surplus of labor and toss onto the other taxpayers the expense of supporting them all beyond the small wages paid a comparatively few. Pike says they came voluntarily at a time when California was having her troubles, and adds that the state-federal employment bureau made a survey in the mid-west and elsewhere to see if evidence could be found of handbills or other advertising matter enticing the blow-out farmers of the dust bowl, and that nothing was turned up.

"Apparently," he says, "this trek was largely stimulated because these migrants invariably found federal relief in California was twice or thrice as much as that disbursed in Oklahoma, North Texas, Arizona or Missouri. Thousands of the early comers wrote their relatives to join them for this reason." McWilliams and John Steinbeck in Grapes of Wrath, claim large-scale farming is absorbing and driving out the small farmer, and Pike replies that no concern has gone into large farming operations since around 1925.

Claims Huge Forms Don't Pay So Well
"Ogden Armour came to California," he writes, "and after about 15 years, this operation practically wiped out the Armour private fortune. I am told the loss amounted to nearly fifteen millions. Parallel to this is the case of the Boston Land company which put 10,000 acres of orchards and vineyards into production and is reported to have lost ten millions. Actually, the big operators are going out, the small operators are taking over."

McWilliams warns of fascism, and accuses the Associated Farmers of Quick first aid... costs little now!

MANY A LITTLE CUT or scratch has gone untended...:

But why take such a risk, when after proper treatment it can be so easily, so quickly, covered by a Band-Aid?

Band-Aid is a Johnson & Johnson product, one of a line of products that has been respected and used by doctors for years. In line with our policy of making our products available to more and more people, we have constantly sought ways to lower the price.

Band-Aid, for instance, is only one-third the price of even its depression years' low. ALL Red Cross Products cost only a fraction of their price of years ago.

Even modest-income homes can now afford to use Johnson & Johnson first aid necessities.

Politics Will be Reconvened After Embargo Question

Democratic Warfare Also Will be Resumed, Lawrence Says

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington—After the embargo, what? First of all, politics will be reconvened rather promptly. The Republicans have been rather embarrassed in their fund raising and organizing work for the 1940 campaign by the truce of the last few weeks.

Next, there will be a resumption of Democratic warfare, too, with the prospect that the speeches of prominent Democrats will be delivered at various party gatherings.

What will be the issues? There is a faint murmur here and there that the Dies committee investigating un-American activities may give the Republicans some of the ammunition they are looking for. They would like nothing better than to paint the New Deal and the Democratic administration as somehow sympathetic with communistic ideas. Something of this sort was tried here and there in the 1936 campaign without success, but the country at that time was not in the mood to listen to cries of communism because the country was bulging with soldier bonus money and "pump-priming" prosperity through WPA and FWA.

The fact that President Roosevelt has manifested his displeasure over the operations of the Dies committee, calling recent disclosures "a sordid procedure," has given rise to the belief that when the committee seeks further appropriations, the Republicans may be found supporting the Texas chairman while the administration Democrats struggle to put an end once and for all to the committee's explorations among "left wing" friends of the New Deal.

Trail Difficult

Unfortunately, the so-called anti-communistic wave, which has been fostered by various interests throughout the country, is not entirely concerned with subversive activities on the part of organizations which get money from foreign governments, but anxious to discredit, if possible, various labor union leaders as a part of the capital-labor quarrels of the hour. Then, too, there is undoubtedly a good deal of behind-the-scenes effort to tie up the "liberals" to communism by inferences and innuendoes. Chairman Dies and his committee did not set out to do any "witch-hunting" among Democrats, but to get at fascist and communist activities which might have been inspired by foreign institutions and set up with their money. But the trail is so difficult to establish, records are so often destroyed, that a dragnet technique by the committee has injured many innocent parties.

Representative Dies has declared that he does not by any means object to the espousal of communist ideas as such by an American and that his fight is not against free speech or the transmission of thought as such in our political system, but that he is trying to expose the connections between these communist or fascist organizations and foreign governments.

Department of Justice

What will immediately be asked by the disinterested bystander is why the department of justice has not been unearthing this sort of thing, and why it requires a congressional committee to do the detective work which ought to be done under our existing laws by the G-men employed by the federal government. There was a time when the Dies committee and the department of justice clashed, but they were supposed subsequently to be working together.

The Republicans naturally are interested spectators. They, too, may insist on knowing why more has not been done to run down subversive activities. Evidence is apparently easier to get, now that many American communists are turning their backs on the Russians because of their recent excursion into the arms of Adolf Hitler. But a mere "red-baiting" crusade is not likely to be countenanced, even by Republicans. Much injustice can be done by accusing persons of foreign birth of being tied to either fascism or communism.

The Dies committee has earned the enmity of the New Dealers. Have the New Dealers then been restraining the G-men, or have the department of justice agents investigated the alleged clues and found them barren of substantial evidence? In either case, as the Dies committee continues its deliberations, the disclosures thus far made may be the subject of considerable controversy when the 1940 campaign begins, because, at the moment, public feeling seems to be running high in America against the dictatorship states. It may be difficult, incidentally, to establish the premise of any great friendship at the White House for either Stalin or Hitler, judging by recent communications from Washington to Berlin and Moscow.

NEW INDUSTRIES FOR WISCONSIN

Experiments at the University of Wisconsin, it is announced, have demonstrated that Wisconsin red clay can be used successfully in the making of pottery. That is good. It also offers a clue to the methods which can be used to retain the state's favorable industrial position in relation to its neighbors and competitors in the national market. It shows that we have not yet fully realized the value of our native resources.

While there is no immediate cause for alarm, but rather for congratulation when the situation elsewhere is considered, thoughtful observers of state problems have remarked before that in the future Wisconsin will be increasingly called upon to shape a policy looking toward the maintenance, not to mention improvement, of her industrial position.

Although the state's healthy diversification of industries has served as a protective cushion against great peaks of employment and unemployment, although it has the advantages of adequate and proximate transportation facilities, our own economists have emphasized that competition is becoming ever keener, and that the state must find new industries, preferably consumer goods industries, as time goes on.

Excepting the lumber and timber industry, which now ranks 15th, all of the more important Wisconsin manufacturers at present equal or exceed in national rank the state's position in population—14th. Easy access to railroads and possession of Great Lakes ports facilitates the movement of goods in almost every direction, and enables the shipment of most of the state's processed and manufactured materials to the great mass markets of the nation.

Yet the westward movement of the nation's population which for a time offered hope of even greater advantages in proximity to profitable markets, has apparently slowed down, while great increases in manufacturing emphasis have come in the South Atlantic states, which are beginning to compete in textile manufacture, furniture making, pulp and paper, and lumber production, while industry is also expanding in the production goods fields in the Michigan, Indiana and Ohio area, which is closer to the center of the American population than is our own state.

While the state is commonly considered as predominantly agricultural—a tribute to the dairy cow, the symbol of proud supremacy in the production of milk, cheese and butter—one-third of the working people of Wisconsin depend upon industry for a livelihood. Total employment offered by Wisconsin industries rose from 233,000 in 1914 to 277,000 in 1937. This is more than agriculture, which employs only 24 per cent of the working people of the state.

At least half of the remainder of the population of Wisconsin is counted in the occupations of trade, domestic service, clerical work, transportation, professional and public service. It is apparent that the economic health of this large group is dependent directly on the prosperity of agriculture and manufacturing, for their services are generally required in proportion to the productive turnover of the basic creators of wealth in the factory and on the farm.

The university will be commended for its initiative if the clay experiments lead the way to a new industrial enterprise for Wisconsin, however modest its beginning, and will be encouraged to devote its resources to further exploration of industrial possibilities within the state.

THE RING RACKET

Arn Ward wrote a sizeable scoop for the Chicago Tribune in his story of the boxing matches thrown by Harry Thomas to Galento and Schmeling.

The fact that sports writers have been holding their noses as they watched fights where some palooka took a dive for the floor and then went out and collected his jack has not been enough because the public, which didn't get within smelling distance of the fight, and that includes 99 1/2 per cent, retained a sneaking suspicion that probably everything was on the up and up. People like to believe well of others. Suspicion often evaporates after a time.

And still the fight game is all right. The trouble with it consists of the managers who are intent on building gate receipts and to whom the success of their fighters is of importance only as they throw off enough color to produce crowds. Picking up human monstrosities all the way from Italy to the Argentine didn't pan out so very well financially. More color was to be found right here at home. So importations were dropped and the managers went to work on their home products with exactly the same standard of morals as motivates the fellow who loads dice.

The best part of the muddy story is the fact of exposure. Mr. Ward's article indicates a careful collection of evidence, even to the letters Thomas wrote his friends before the matches warning them not to waste their money betting on him, which has strong supporting value.

POPE PIUS AND THE NEW PAGANISM

Documents issued by church statesmen are too often largely limited to the attention of the faithful in that particular church whereas many of the great religious expositions apply to all people and will be found as reasonable and as worthy by those in one religious sect as another.

The pope's recent encyclical belongs to the world, not merely the members of the Catholic church. It challenges the attention and will beget a warm reaction in every heart that is honestly seeking the way to live a life somewhat in conformity to principles often denominated as Christian.

At no time perhaps has the curse of the soul-destroying theory that one man, in the name of a super-creation called the state, may set himself up as sole judge of how people shall act, think, talk and expend their time, been more completely or utterly exposed and crushed than by the Pope's published document.

His Holiness inveighs against the assumption that a wicked thing may be made pure and righteous because some person, temporarily occupying the position of the state, may issue an order declaring it to be pure and righteous. Moreover it becomes the business of all people to heed the pontiff's exhortation urging them to place all forces of body and spirit against the conception that permits this same person, temporarily occupying the position of the state, to determine the people's creeds, write their commandments, as well as regulate the earthly affairs of their religious institutions. The effects of the existence in the world today of these mammoth, monstrous wrongs parading as governments and pretending to reflect the will of hundreds of millions of people are now becoming evident.

In international fields tumult reigns. Within the borders of their own commonwealths millions of men with ugly resentful hearts speak with their eyes their hatred when their lips dare not move.

Time, of course, will tell, as it does everything. But if Pius rules for several decades at Rome he will probably never issue a more important message dealing with a more critical subject or holding out to mankind more by way of hope through a dark night than in his premier encyclical.

LEGAL RULES AND CORRUPTION

However successful the Louisiana gang is in state tribunals it has its back to the wall like a musketeer dueling a dozen when the federals pick up the fight.

One of the greatest weapons the federal authorities has consists of the income tax statutes. Al Capone remembers that fact. So does Pendergast out in Leavenworth.

The federal circuit court of appeals in New York held not so long ago that even embezzlements constituted income, and that restitution of the money would not satisfy the granitelike demands of the income tax statute. The supreme court of the United States gave virtual approval to this decision by refusing to entertain a motion to review it.

This nice legal result puts the recreant public official on enough spots to spin him around like a top. He must virtually confess his offenses or be amenable to the federal law. He wouldn't care whether he violated state statutes but becoming subject to prosecution under the federal law is just playing the part of a gaping fool, as many men in the underworld have learned through long imprisonment.

Some of the Huey Long hoodlums thought they figured out a clever one to bend the law. When they embezzled money they made a mental reservation to return it. What embezzler does not, particularly when brought to court? Then when the walls began closing in on them some did make restitution, put the money back where it was after using it for a big market plunge and figured there was no harm done. Not so, say the federal judges.

The principal difficulty of a polished crook these days who thinks he has everything fixed up pretty nicely with the state authorities, is to keep clear of federal laws, a thing as difficult to do as to walk through a woods baited with bear traps without any idea of their location.

Claming Carlo Giacchino, a medical student taught young Serafina to smoke during long walks when they were engaged. Serafina's father has sued Carlo in Turin, Italy, for the cost of the girl's cigarettes as shown by the increased family budget. The father estimates it at about $230 a year. No one in Serafina's family had touched tobacco for four generations, but, although her engagement is broken off, the girl is still puffing despite her father's appeals.

That he has invented a one-man flying machine which is so small that it can be strapped on the pilot's back, has been announced by Adolf Wessensberger of Frankfurt, Germany. All the pilot has to do is to put a padded mat on his back, strap the plane securely to his body and use into the air at will. The machine, driven by a two-cylinder engine, is controlled by hand levers, and the feet, which rest on a light framework, control the steering gear.

DALE HARRISON'S In Old New York

New York—Manhattan Marquee:
Most of the boys who get paid for their opinions liked "Skylark," not because of the play itself but because of Gertrude Lawrence who dominates it. It is a gentle comedy that recites what happens when a loving wife awakens to the realization her husband is paying more attention to his job than to her. As a play it proves nothing, but as an evening in the theatre it is an excellent investment.

George Abbott's "The Boys From Syracuse" of last year was not a success, but his musical of this season, "Too Many Girls," is a honey. Like last year's "Boys," it is a Rodgers and Hart show, expertly knitted. It brings to the legitimate theatre the breathless Porto Rican, Diego Costello, whose mad gyrations captured Abbott's fancy in the night clubs, Abbott being a rumba enthusiast of high renown. The first act finale, with Miss Costello leading the ensemble in a mad campus Conga is sheer directorial genius. Clap hands for "Too Many Girls."

Miss Helen Hayes, after eight years of playing queens of England, gets a chance to be 1939 in "Ladies and Gentlemen," a play by her husband, Charles MacArthur, and his inevitable collaborator, Ben Hecht. They have written better ones, but Miss Hayes will carry "Ladies and Gentlemen." Philip Merivale plays opposite her.

"The Man Who Came to Dinner" finds George S. Kaufman and Moss Hart writing once more in the swift farce-comedy tempo of "You Can't Take It With You." The play, which should start a great many people rolling down the aisles with laughter, concerns a commentator (the authors had Alexander Woolcott in mind) who went to a friend's house for dinner, fell on the ice and injured himself so that he had to remain an unwilling house guest. The play depicts the resultant confusion as the commentator attempts to carry on his broadcasts from the house and his business as well. It being Christmas time, he is snowed under with gifts, not the least of which (for the purposes of a Kaufman-Hart comedy) are two penguins, the gift of Admiral Byrd from the South Pole. You get the idea.

City Symphony:
Once again—and it has been so long!—the riveting machines do their tap dance on Broadway. This time it is no skyscraper; just another "taxpayer," as they call those two-story affairs between 42nd and 43rd Streets. . . . I know now what a bombed building must look like—the inside of the half-demolished Hippodrome on Sixth Avenue. . . . Signs of better times: more women wearing orchids. . . . Eighth Avenue, in the neighborhood of Madison Square Garden, goes wild west; its Rodeo time. . . . Those nuisances, the Broadway curb merchants who peddle all sorts of trash to anyone who buys, are blocking traffic again with the crowds of curious they collect around them. The police, who had them frightened away for awhile, are too busy, apparently, guarding docks and consulates and hunting spies. . . .

It's become a fad for gadabout girls to sit on the drums of the bands when they go night clubbing. At the Monte Carlo Ted Straeter, the maestro, often has to line them up so they can take turns beating the skins. . . . A new high in wearing patriotism on the outside instead of in the heart: "Flag red" lip rouge. . . . Raoul of the dance team of Raoul and Reyes, was a learned-dance-by-mail student seven years ago. . . . Summy Kaye punishes his bandmen when they are late for rehearsal by making them police all the brass instruments. . . . Wonder if Dinah Shore, the blues singer, ever gets mixed up in her lyrics, singing as she does in hot spots on week nights and in Church on Sundays?

Paul Whiteman, back in town for a hotel engagement after an absence from such local employment of several years, puts a million dollar valuation on the little caricature of his face which has come to be his trade-mark. It pictures Paul as plump, double-chinned, with wavy eyebrows and a two-section mustache.

Whiteman estimates he has spent $100,000 to spread the picture around the country. Others have spent additional fortunes. One concern uses it as a wall paper design. Fabric designers employ it on cloth. In his own home the drawing is reproduced on all his clothing and jewelry, on the mirrors, and on every piece of silver and chinaware.

Possessing a value to Whiteman of a million dollars, its original cost was a mere $10—and Whiteman has even forgotten the name of the artist who did it.

Looking Backward

25 YEARS AGO
Tuesday, Nov. 3, 1914
Akabap, Arabia, had been shelled and occupied by the British cruiser Minerva. The czar's army crushed the army to cross the frontier and attack the Turks. Turkish troops were near the Egyptian border and the British were prepared to resist an invasion.

A savings bank had been organized at Lincoln school with Prof. F. P. Young in charge.

October was considerably warmer than the same month the previous year, records showing the mean temperature to be 54.6 as compared to 48.3 in 1913.

A. E. Smith was a visitor at Dale the previous day.

10 YEARS AGO

Tuesday, Oct. 29, 1929
The crest of the 25th of selling, which has wiped out at least 25 billions of dollars in the quoted values of securities in the previous week, appeared to have passed in the New York securities markets early that afternoon when a brisk rally followed another disastrous decline which had carried scores of issues down $1 to $70 a share.

Oneida street was not to be paved that fall, the common council decided at a special meeting Monday night. The action followed a motion of Alderman McGill that bids for brick and sand be rejected.

Mrs. Peter Thom, 706 E. College avenue, entertained the Clio club Monday night at a 6 o'clock dinner. Mrs. J. H. Farley reviewed "Galaxy." The committee included Mrs. Kate Gochner, Mrs. Otto Kuehnstedt, Miss Carrie E. Morgan and Mrs. E. A. Morse.

A Verse for Today

HALLOWEEN

Be good, little girl! Be good, little boy!
It's only the naughty who spoils the day!
But if you are bad, as you long have been,
Watch out for the witches who carry switches
On Halloween.

The wind is a witch! Her fingers twitch
And bend the boughs behind the house.
The moon looks down from a wicked frown.
The pumpkins grin! The cats begin With a loud meow! The dogs bow-wow!

The late birds twitter, the black bats flitter.
The late birds twitter, 12ctw16Tm SHRDLU.
The stars are murky, the ground feels jerky.
The house is rocking, the ghosts are mocking!
What is it shocking the peaceful scene?

Look out! Beware! They're on the stair!
They're riding their broomsticks every-where!
Their hair is black, their eyes are green!
Be good! You should!
IT'S HALLOWEEN!

A Bystander In Washington

BY PRESTON GROVER
Washington—First alarm over difficulties of purchasing war reserves of strategic materials have begun to abate. But the problem is still far from solved.

The difficulties were not made easier by the various "pressure groups" that arise whenever federal money is to be spent.

The last Congress appropriated $10,000,000 to buy supplies of manganese, chromium, tin, quinine, tungsten, and a fairly long list of other items of which this country has little or none. Authority also was given for spending $100,000,000 during the next four years. It must be remembered there is at times a long spread between an "authorization" and an "appropriation."

A Sample 'Headache'
The supply of manganese presents a sample problem. This country does not produce much.

The government is trying the two-fold job of developing the domestic sources by suitable contracts, while at the same time it brings in shiploads from Russia, Cuba and India. Manganese, chromium and tungsten are vital essentials to steel manufacture.

Recently the treasury opened bids for the first of the desired supply. The bidding, to say the best, was not keen. There was evidence that all sources were looking for prices to be pushed higher by the war.

Russia, from which we buy 50 per cent or more of our 750,000 ton annual need, seemed to be low bidder but put so many technicalities in her bid that the treasury seemed appalled. For example, she asked the U. S. to fork over 80 per cent of the price before the stuff left Russia.

As an explanation, it was remembered that Russia is desperately short of dollars, exchange with which to pay for the huge shipments of machinery she is buying in this country.

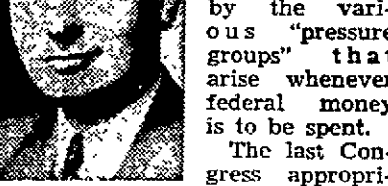

Unofficial guesses are that Russia will modify her terms. Just now the U. S. is not pressed to buy. There are a million tons in private hands, more than a year's peacetime supply.

In the past half-dozen years Cuba has developed a source, mighty close and handy. A top production of around 180,000 tons a year is estimated by the army.

Buy Tin Slowly
A Dutch-British cartel controls the world tin supply, so the buying of tin is very conservative to avoid giving the cartel an opportunity to jack up prices.

South Africa, the major chromium supplier, sent a bid that cheered the government. China bid to supply tungsten.

As to rubber, the recent trade of cotton to England brought 67,000 tons of it as a reserve. That is less than one-fifth of a year's needs. As with tin, England controls the rubber supply. But in a pinch the U. S. has a tremendous reserve from two sources—synthetic rubber and old tires.

Madison—It can now be written, as definitely as anything can be written about a man who has a short memory and who has been known to change his mind on short notice, that there will not be a special session of the legislature at the call of July.

Heil this year, if ever during his term.

During the nine long months of the regular session, Mr. Heil got tired of the legislature, and there is more evidence every day that the legislature was tired of him.

Developments have been such that there is only a remote possibility that Heil would be able to get his desired fulfilled at the hands of the senators and assemblymen who left in a huff and whose tempers apparently haven't calmed since.

TWO EXAMPLES
Two examples have recently appeared to show some Republican legislators' attitude toward the governor.

Assemblyman Goldthorpe of Cuba City, who was "regular" all during the session, got back home last week and in the columns of his community newspaper handed Heil a severe ribbing. At about the same time Assemblyman Anthony Gruzka of Mosinee, Marathon county, was circulating his district with an ugly charge that he had been offered a bribe in connection with the vote to reorganize the public service commission, and a series of caustic criticisms of Heil's judgment and capacity in office.

To top it all, Heil's famous "wine, women and song" speech at Wisconsin Rapids has angered a lot of legislators who feel that it is a reflection on their dignity and integrity.

While observers—who know something of the goings-on in the lobby during legislative sessions—chuckled heartily and agreed that the governor "had something there," they were also unanimous in the opinion that it was a singularly inappropriate accusation to throw at the legislature at a time when he obviously still needs legislative support.

The governor of Wisconsin has a knack for making quotable statements. Doubtless his "wine, women and song" criticism of the legislature and its habits will stand for a long time as a classic. Whatever other governors may have thought, they haven't had the courage to say it.

Note: On member of the legislature, upon reading the governor's statement, wondered at length in a letter to the executive. He didn't hear any singing, he said in effect.

Big Snapping Turtle Weighs in at 40 Lbs.

Frederick, Md.—(7-J. Paul Delph's snapping turtle is the biggest reservoir of soup stock the Smithsonian Institution ever heard of—40 pounds in the raw.

Boys chased the big turtle out of a creek several years ago and either cornered it or it cornered the boys. The stories differ. Anyway, a farmer rescued either the turtle or the boys with a pitchfork and Delph put the turtle in a concrete tank.

It weighed 34 pounds then and gained on a diet of meat scraps and bait fish. Smithsonian officials said the turtle, now 16 inches wide and 17 long, is eight pounds heavier than the biggest of its kind on record.

Personal Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
Noted Physician and Author

QUININE FOR THE CRI

Yesterday we ended our talk discussing the way the Common Respiratory Infections are spread by unguarded sneezing and coughing and even in conversation.

Oh, I know it is unpleasant to think about such infection. But it is more unpleasant to catch the cri when you know in your heart that had the so-and-so who peppered you exercised intelligence and conscience you might have escaped the illness.

Try just telling you. Not that I expect you will go about wearing a mask, even when you have the early symptoms of the cri. Nor do I expect you will spend the rest of your life ducking and dodging when people approach to speak to you and you suspect they have the cri.

Still I don't mind confessing that in some ticklish situations it takes all the courage I can muster to stand my ground when the impulse is to throw up my guard—my cupped hands before my face and beat it out of range as quickly as possible when some one buttonholes me to tell me what a dreadful "cold" he has or is just throwing off.

It is my honest belief that a clear comprehension of the significance of the cri—after all, it is not just a vulgar attempt on my part to substitute a meaningless term for a misleading one, "cold"—is the greatest protection one can have against such illness—and such illness, be it remembered, accounts for three-fourths of the business of medical practitioners the year around.

A more effective prophylactic measure against the cri, I believe, would be the universal custom of wearing suitable mask (screen) over the face, or contriving some such screen between oneself and persons with whom one converses. But the public has not yet learned to use or respect such a measure.

A third line of defense which is readily available for everybody is good old quinine.

Based wholly upon world-wide experience and not on any scientific theory or observation, the value of quinine both as a prophylactic against any respiratory infection in time of epidemic and as a remedy when you are coming down with the cri, is recognized by physicians everywhere.

The use of quinine as prophylactic, say against "the flu or influenza" or simple coryza, involves merely taking one grain of quinine sulphate, (tablet, oil or capsule) three times a day throughout the period of prevalence of the disease. As a remedy when you come down with any such illness or indisposition, three grains every four hours for adults; for children one grain every four hours.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
Transurethral Prostatic Resection
Following your advice I had transurethral resection of prostate four years ago. I was discharged from hospital five days after operation. The treatment proved fully successful. It was completely painless until the last ten minutes, when the spinal anesthesia wore off and there was considerable pain. Comparing my experience with that of a friend who submitted to the more radical prostate operation, I am grateful to good "Old Doc" Brady. Long may he wave!

Answer—But it does seem as the most of my waving has the effect of a red flag on a bevy of bulls. People who like what I say here sometime like it well enough to let me. People who don't like it generally tell some one else.

Change of Water
Planning trip from Kentucky to New York. Change of water always seems to make me sick. How can I avoid such sickness? (M. M.)
Answer—The water in cities is perfectly pure and safe for drinking. If you have to drink water at wayside places, better see that it is boiled, or in an emergency, put two or three drops of common brown tincture of iodine in the quart of questionable water, let it stand twenty minutes before drinking. Wise for any one planning tour, trip or voyage, to be immunized against typhoid and paratyphoid by the family physician several weeks before date of departure.

Ivy Poisoning
Applications for relief of ivy dermatitis: Apply dressings kept wet with solution of photographers hypo (sodium hyposulphate) or as it is now called, thiosulphate) one ounce in the half pint of water. Or apply equal parts of tincture of iron chloride and water.

It's Odd But It's Science

BY HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
AP Science Editor

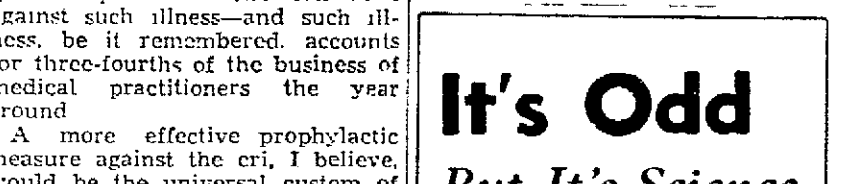

Beltsville, Md.—A spray that prevents apples from falling off the trees is announced by the U. S. Horticultural Station here.

Premature falling of apples is one of the growers' great problems. As the fruit approaches the maturity and color for harvest, in numerous varieties the danger of dropping becomes more acute. Orchardists gamble every day they let the fruit stay on trees.

The new spray contains a few drops of a chemical that promotes plant growth. These growth substances have been discovered in the last few years. In strong concentrations they will make roots grow out of leaves or stems.

The spray reduced the falling of Williams Early Red apples from nearly total loss of the crop to almost no loss. By actual count trees that had dropped from 61.2 per cent to 99.8 per cent of their apples, dropped only a little more than one per cent.

The chemical used was naphthalene acetic acid. Its concentration was one thousandth of one per cent. Later tests with a spray containing only 25 ten thousandths of this acid resulted in marked inhibition of dropping of several varieties of apples.

Appleton Guard Unit Is Ordered To Winter Camp

Company D Will Leave City Nov. 11 for Week of Training

Captain H. J. Piette, commander of Company D of the 127th infantry, said today the Appleton national guard unit will go to Camp McCoy near Sparta, Wis., for a week of winter training beginning Saturday, Nov. 11.

Captain Piette received a telegram yesterday from General Ralph Imnell, adjutant general of the state, informing him of orders for winter drills for Wisconsin's national guardsmen.

The Appleton company will go to Camp McCoy at 7:30 a. m., and will remain there through Friday, Nov. 17. Bands are the only national guard units that will not attend winter training.

It will be the first time in the history of the Appleton company that it has been ordered to winter drills, Captain Piette said this morning.

"It will probably mean a good deal harder program than during the summer," the company commander said. "I expect that the men will deal with small problems and maneuvers during the day and that they'll be busy about seven hours a day. Officers' schools will be held in the evening after dusk."

The Appleton company will be quartered in CCC barracks near Sparta and will travel to and from the Camp McCoy grounds by truck each day. It is expected about 4,500 Wisconsin national guardsmen will participate in winter training.

Lieutenant General Stanley H. Ford, Chicago, commander of the Sixth Corps area, reported yesterday that his regular army troops would participate in winter field training for the first time in several years. The area includes Illinois, Michigan, and Wisconsin.

Police Chief Warns Halloween 'Ghosts' About Doing Damage

All members of the police department will be on duty tonight to prevent the Halloween "ghosts" that are expected to stalk the streets from preventing damage to property. Police Chief George T. Prim said today.

That members of the county board will "put their noses to the grindstone" when they meet for their November session. A goodly share of the members are planning to go deer hunting and they want to finish the board's work a day earlier than usual so that they can prepare for the opening day on Nov. 25.

That G. L. Chamberlin, 114 E. Pacific street, has roses in bloom on three bushes in his back yard. He picked the blooms from a red rose bush and there is another bud about to open, thus being the fourth time the bush has bloomed this year. Two white rose bushes are blooming for the third time.

That to top off what they termed a perfect visit in Appleton, Senator and Mrs. William Harper, San Diego, Calif., got their final wish today when they saw snow large fluffy flakes for a brief time this morning. The Harpers who leave tomorrow after visiting in Appleton for the last 24 weeks had been wishing for a snow storm before their departure as they never see it in their home state.

Council Will be Asked to Launch Sewerage Project

Committee Recommends Acceptance of Koepke Bid on Pipe

A recommendation to accept the low bid of the Koepke Construction company, $18,114, for concrete sewer pipe to construct storm sewers in Appleton this winter will be made at a council meeting Wednesday by the street and bridge committee.

The pipe will be used on the $218,308 WPA storm sewer project proposed by Alfred Wickesberg, city engineer. The sewer job work will be extended over a period of years, how many it has not been decided, and is expected to relieve flooding of sanitary sewers in the city after heavy storms.

The committee deferred action on bids for a sewer trenching machine and proposals for a digger for future consideration.

Mayor Goodland warned the board of public works last Friday that he would not stand for a raise in taxes to finance the project. He said the work could be done over a period of years and suggested that the committee wait until budget time to see how much money could be diverted to the project.

Wants Project Started
Another recommendation, which might start a little fireworks, is a request that the council authorize installation of the Durkee street sewer line and another near the high school under the new WPA project.

The committee authorized the city engineer to buy gravel from the Landwehr and Hackl company at 85 cents per cubic yard for work on the following streets: Harriman, 495 cubic yards; Lawe, 210 cubic yards; Union, 185 cubic yards; and Verbrick, 195 cubic yards.

The committee will ask the city clerk to write to the county board suggesting that Meade street, north of Wisconsin avenue, be placed on the county trunk system. The request was approved last Friday at a meeting of a joint committee of city, county and Grand Chute officials.

"have lately been attempting to depict themselves as champions of the democratic rights of nations against Hitlerism."

Molotov for the first time disclosed the officially-admitted Russian casualties incurred in occupying the eastern half of Poland—737 dead and 1,862 wounded.

Two-thirds of the casualties occurred in taking over the western Ukraine, he said, adding that 300 planes were among the large quantities of war supplies captured.

Surveying the international situation in a speech before an extraordinary session of the supreme soviet Russia's parliament, Molotov said Britain and France had declared "something in the nature of an ideological war on Germany, reminding of the religious wars of olden times."

"It is back to the middle ages, to the days of religious wars, superstition and cultural deterioration that the ruling classes of Britain and France want to drag us," he asked.

"There is absolutely no justification for a war of this kind."

"Danger" to Europe
He said the war which has started is "fraught with even greater danger for the peoples of Europe and the whole world."

"One may accept or reject the ideology of Hitlerism as well as any other ideological system. That is a matter of political views. But everybody should understand that ideology cannot be destroyed by force, that it cannot be eliminated by war. It is therefore not only senseless but criminal to wage such a war as a war for the destruction of Hitlerism," he concluded.

"And indeed you cannot give the name of a fight for democracy to such action as the banning of the communist party in France, arrests of communist deputies of the French parliament, or the curtailing of political liberties in England or the unremitting national oppression in India."

Plead Guilty to Charges Of Breaking and Entering, Unarmed Robbery

Two persons drew penal terms, one in the state reformatory for breaking and entering in the daytime and the other in state prison for unarmed robbery, when they pleaded guilty to the charges in municipal court of Judge Thomas H. Ryan yesterday afternoon.

Alton Swamp, 20, Oneida Indian, was sentenced to from 1 to 3 years in the state reformatory at Green Bay for entering the home of William Powless, Oneida, and taking some women's clothes valued at $20. Swamp waived preliminary hearing, was bound over immediately for trial and pleaded guilty.

Asked why he committed the offense, Swamp said the act was done on "impulse." He was in municipal court on a similar charge a short time ago.

George Ritchie, 32, alias Andrew Ritchie and alias Arthur Breault, was sentenced to from 1 to 3 years at Waupun for robbery while unarmed in Appleton in 1932. He was paroled from the Joliet, Ill. penitentiary over the weekend and was returned to Appleton by Sheriff John Lappen to face the charge here.

Ritchie, who waived preliminary hearing and pleaded guilty after being bound over for trial, was charged with entering the Schabo meat market with a companion and taking $20 from a milkman who entered the shop after they found nothing but small change in the cash register. Ritchie's companion, Ralph Treese, who was returned here several weeks ago to face a similar charge, was sentenced in municipal court to a similar term.

AMBASSADOR SUMMONED

Rome—(AP)—The German embassy announced today that Ambassador Hans-Georg Viktor von Mackensen had returned to Berlin for "an extraordinary reason." It said he left Rome Sunday, but withheld further information.

The arrival in Rome Sept. 15 of a German described as a former admiral and a personal friend of the ambassador was responsible for reports on foreign circles that Germany was endeavoring to counter allied efforts to keep Italy neutral.

The visitor never was identified, however, and nothing further was disclosed concerning his visit.

Von Mackensen 10 days ago completed with Italy arrangements for removing to Germany about 200,000 German-speaking residents of Italy in Tyrol by 1942. Diplomats said this was designed to eliminate any German claim on the south Tyrol area that once belonged to Austria-Hungary.

Any piano, say some parents, will do for a child's first lessons. But what a mistake that notion is!

On an inferior instrument, the child develops no appreciation of fine tone quality, and cannot attain a smooth technique.

Furthermore, depreciation on such an instrument is rapid.

A Steinway inspires a child, brings out the best in him, extends his musical talent.

Continued Gains Reported in Fox Valley Industry

September Employment, Payrolls Show Substantial Increases

(Post-Crescent Madison Bureau) Madison—Manufacturing employment and pay roll indices in Wisconsin continued to bound upward during September, the industrial commission noted today, as it reported substantial increases over the previous month and even greater improvement over a corresponding period in 1938.

Wisconsin now has 214,000 wage earners, compared with 209,000 in manufacturing enterprises during August, and only 189,600 in September of last year, it was reported. The percentage of rise was 2 per cent over the previous month, and 12.9 per cent September of last year. Payrolls dropped one per cent from a month ago, but were 17.7 per cent over a year ago, while average hourly earnings remained stationary, reported at 64.4 cents.

The industrial commission at the same time produced September industrial statistics showing that Fox river valley communities are keeping considerably ahead of their position in September of 1938. Appleton, with 3,290 wage earners in factories in September was 24 per cent above a month ago, and 3.3 per cent above September of last year.

Wage, Hour Increase
Its September weekly payroll of $74,300 was 2.3 per cent over August, and 7.1 per cent over September of last year, while average weekly earnings of $23.17 compared with $23.18 in August and only $21.77 in September of last year. Average hours worked was put at 40.5 a week for September, compared with 40.2 in August and 38.3 last year at the same time.

In Green Bay the city's 4,270 workers in industry compared with 4,220 in August and 3,900 in September of last year. Its estimated weekly payrolls in September, however, of $113,000, amounted to an increase of 2.7 per cent over September of last year. It was equal to the payrolls of the previous month. Average weekly earnings stood at $26.65, compared with $25.18 last year, while average hours worked dropped to 41.5 from 41.9 the previous month and 42.3 in 1938.

Other communities in the area also showed gains. Menasha wage earners increased 10.2 per cent over last year, in Neenah the increase was 12.1 per cent, in Oshkosh 8.3 per cent, and in Manitowoc, 12.9 per cent. Manitowoc, however, showed a heavy drop, 12 per cent, below its peak of the previous month. Manitowoc also reported losses from the previous month's index and the employment of the previous year in September, 2.9 per cent and 7.2 per cent, respectively.

Increase in Aids Should Cut Taxes, Alliance Advises

Claims Generosity of Legislature Makes Big Savings Possible

(Post-Crescent Madison Bureau) Madison—Generosity of the state legislature in greatly increasing state aids this year should make it possible for local governments in 1940 to show a reduction of nearly $4,000,000, or about 4 per cent as a state average, in property taxes, the Wisconsin Taxpayers alliance said today in a public statement.

Savings to local property taxpayers were made possible by increases in state highways aids to counties, towns, cities and villages. "A reduction of $2,800,000 in county taxes and $1,300,000 in local taxes is possible," it was said.

The increase in county trunk highway aids, which became effective in July, amounts to about $1,400,000 a year for two years.

"Since this $1,400,000 for 1939 could not have been anticipated by county boards when they established the 1939 highway budgets last November, the increase in aid should be available as an unanticipated surplus to be applied against 1940 highway expenditures."

"In addition, an equal increase to be anticipated in 1940 can be used to reduce county property tax levies. The total reduction of property taxes for highway purposes which can be made by county boards this November could aggregate $2,800,000—almost the equivalent of a full extra year of state aid for county trunk improvement."

"The increase in state aid for local roads and streets amounts to $1,300,000 or about a 30 per cent increase in the amount towns, cities and villages formerly received in state aid for this purpose," according to the alliance.

Sounds Warning
"Unless taxpayers are alert, some counties may use the increased aid to increase expenditures, rather than to reduce pro-party taxes," the alliance warned the public in its report.

Figures compiled by the alliance show that there are 14,446 miles of the county trunk system, and that last year state aids accounted for 36.6 per cent of the total of $8,206,929 expended on that system. With the increases made by the 1939 legislature, state aid in 1939 and 1938 expenditures would be 54 per cent.	ture on the county trunk systems in each of the counties of northeastern Wisconsin:	Waupaca 203 172,195 Winnebago 283 126,573

FRIDAY'S GAME
Sheboygan Central at Green Bay East.

SATURDAY'S GAME
Green Bay West at Manitowish.

APPLETON High school gridders, a touchdown under their belts and pleased about the whole thing, will go to Sheboygan Wednesday for a game with Sheboygan North under lights. The contest is being moved up from Friday because of teachers convention and the usual holiday period.

The teams will be engaging in a basement championship game and the Terrors are certain they aren't going to be the conference doo-mat. Their ability to count against Green Bay East has them all steamed up and they figure that North, with one of the poorest defensive records in the loop, should be their first victim.

One dark cloud looms on the Terror horizon, however. Ray Brash-tailback and most consistent ground gainer, was injured Saturday and no report on his condition had been received early this morning. Also ailing was Evan Pegel, freshman guard, who suffered a pulled muscle and probably will be laid up for several days.

Two other games are scheduled this week but probably will be staggered Friday night and Saturday afternoon. In the Friday night game, Green Bay East will play at Sheboygan Central at the Bay and should win handily.

The Saturday game probably is the week's outstanding contest for it will bring together Green Bay West and Manitowish. The Ships were going places until they met East and lost and they'd like revenge on West. If they can beat West and then West turn around and tip East on Armistice day, the lake shore gridder's appreciate the conference will end in a triple tie with Manitowish one of the teams.

Conference statistics show East and West undefeated and untied with East having the best offensive record, 116 points, and West the best defensive mark, 24 points. Appleton has the worst offensive record
—a single touchdown and point—while Oshkosh has been scored on most with Sheboygan a close second. Oshkosh has given up 34 points and North 85.

In the individual scoring race, Liebman, East fullback, sets the pace with 38 points on six touchdowns. Powers of West and Mancheski of East are tied for second honors with 30 points each.

Marquette Finds Blocking Half

Charles Kriz, Chicago Sophomore, Has Proved His Ability

Milwaukee —A season-long search for a standout blocking right halfback for Marquette University's football team appeared ended today with the sudden ascension of Charles Kriz, a Chicago sophomore.

Kriz was particularly impressive in yesterday's long drill and scrimmage against the freshmen, as Coach Paddy Driscoll began slanting Golden Avalanche for next Saturday's game, against Duquesne at Pittsburgh.

Gil Thomsen and Ray Busler, varsity ends and tackle, respectively, will be able to play

Rob Holly Is Waupaca Match Bowling Titlist

Waupaca—The sweepstakes tournament to decide the city bowling championship to represent Wau-paca in the state singles tournament at Milwaukee, was rolled Saturday and Sunday in the Uptown alleys.

Rob Holly topped his competitors with a total of 755 pins. For the four games, his scores were 200, 208, 122 and 225. Other total scores were: Chauncey Jorgensen, 690; Harold Bammel, 689; S. D. Shambeau, 662; Walter Trindrud, 595.

The city champion will travel to Stevens Point, Sunday, Nov. 5, to meet their winner in the sectional finals. The sectional champion is eligible for the grand finals in Milwaukee, Nov. 11 and 12, where cash prizes and trophies will be awarded the winners.

MADISON —Coach Russ
Rippe, a freshman grid coach at the University of Wisconsin, came up with a prize story the other day. During a varsity scrimmage Rippe noticed one of his yearlings tossing the ball with his left hand.

"I see you're a southpaw," Rippe said.

Countered the grinner in all seriousness, "No I'm a frosh."

The 43-6 victory by Marquette's freshman eleven over the Ripon yearlings gives advance warning that the Hilltoppers will have a few more surprise sophomore packages next year. . . . The Arizona eleven was greeted at the station last week by Marquette homecomers in dairy regalia as a return gesture for the fine wild west greeting the Wildcats gave them in Tucson last year.

cers thumped top team totals of 1-059 and 2,956.

D. Pietie lead the Grocers with games of 215, 201 and 225 for a

Northland Beard Story Dies as Grid Team Uses Razors

Ashland —(P)—Consider now the sad story of Harold B. Kildahl, publicity director for Northland college's non-winning football team.

A publicity man's job is no snap, even when the team is winning.
When Northland didn't win, consistently, Kildahl resorted to sending out wires to the papers that the players would not shave until they won.
It wasn't a new idea, but it would do in a pinch.

For two weeks, things went nicely.
Northland didn't win, and the beards grew. At practice yesterday Kildahl's house of cards tumbled.

The beards were off. The players cheeks were smoothed by the car-resses of their razors.

On the upper lip of Coach Arthur Gemme there still was a promising, two week's fuzz. He alone stuck to the deal.

Red-headed Jack Glidden of Needham, Mass., had a face that matched his thatch as he vigorously denied that feminine agitation had anything to do with removal of the beards.

Tennessee Again Considered First Team in Country

Hold Ranking Despite Schedule; Michigan
Rated Second

BY BILL BONI
NEW YORK —(P)—The back-ers of Major Bob Neyland's Tennessee Volunteers still are beating the loudest drums on the football bandwagon.

With 67 of 123 experts casting their first-place votes for Tennessee, the Southeastern conference powerhouse today retained the No. 1 spot in the third Associated Press ranking poll. But the margin was by no means as decisive as it was a week ago, just after Tennessee had handed Alabama a thorough drubbing.

Chiefly through their first-place votes, the Vols accumulated 1,120 points. But Michigan, only all-winning team left in the Big Ten, came in a close second with 1,005, and Cornell, No. 1 team in the east and impressive winner over Ohio State last Saturday, jumped from seventh place to third with 933 points. Michigan got 20 first-place votes and Cornell 18.

Two other teams with perfect states held down fourth and fifth in the ranking. Notre Dame dropped two notches from the runner-up position, and Texas A. and M., Southwest conference favorite, slayed in fifth place, the same ranking it had a week ago.

All of the other members of the first ten have been tied — Oklahoma, which remained in sixth place; Southern California, which moved from eighth to seventh;
Tulane, from ninth to eighth;
North Carolina, from thirteenth to ninth; and Nebraska, a holdover in tenth place.

Ohio State Slips
North Carolina, deadlocked by Tulane, won its berth by its decisive defeat of Penn. and moved into a vacancy created by the Cornell triumph that booted Ohio State from fourth place into the second division. That the experts are having an easier time deciding the big ones from the little ones was shown by the fact that only 25 teams figured in this week's voting, compared with 32 a week ago.

The standings of the teams (figured on basis of 10-9-8-7-6, etc., with first-place votes in parentheses):

First Ten	Points
1-Tennessee (67)	1,120
2-Michigan (20)	1,005
3-Cornell (18)	933
4-Notre Dame (12)	858
5-Texas A. and M. (6)	714
6-Okahoma (2)	605
7-Southern California (1)	598
8-Tulane (1)	419
9-North Carolina (1)	314
10-Nebraska	180

Second Ten: 11-Oregon State
78; 12-Duke 46; 13-Duquesne 44;
14-Ohio State 24; 15-Kentucky
22; 16-Southern Methodist 21;
17-New York U. 20; 18-Louisiana State 17; 19-Clemson 16; tied for 20-Alabama and U. C. L. A., 14 each.

Reveal WIAA Cage Meet Plans Thursday

Milwaukee —The desires of state high schools concerning basketball competition will be announced Thursday at the annual meeting of the Wisconsin Interscholastic Athletic association in the Public Service building at 4 p. m.

Two plans were submitted for a vote. One called for continuation of the present Class A, B and C tournaments. The other called for two divisions of competition in district and regional competition and a state meet with only one classification.

Another matter coming up for a vote will be the widening of summer recreation activity for high school athletes. Present rules prohibit many sports which the association feels should not be denied the boys during the summer vacation.

Results of the election of a WIAA board member from the fourth district also will be announced. E. O.
Evans, Monroe, represents this district on the board.

AN UNSHAVEN BARBER!!!!

An unshaven barber isn't the best advertisement for his business, but when he makes a bet that he'll go without shaving for a month and then loses it, well, he has to go about unshaven, barber or no barber. And that's the plight of Harold Brantigan, who holds forth at the Zueke Building barber shop, shown above while trimming a few hairs from the head of N. L. Allen, Appleton. Brantigan has annually made a bet with Lawrence college gridder about the homecoming football game and several of the gridder have gone around with heavy beards for a month thereafter. But this year's Viking team won its game and the college boys are watching Brantigan's beard get long and heavy and dropping into the shop every day or so to yell, "Hi, sucker." And Brantigan has to take it, too. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Armstrong Stops Pacho in Fourth

Hammering Henry Admits He Isn't So Keen About Game Anymore

Denver —(P)—Maybe it was the Halloween influence that caused hammering Henry Armstrong to observe today "fighting is just a frolic — when you're in shape."
But he added he's a bit tired of it.

"When I go in there, I go in to win, of course," the soft-voiced little Negro said, "but I just don't enjoy it like I once did — not after 10 years. I suppose it's like any other job, it gets monotonous."

The 26-year-old welterweight champion hammered a technical knockout over Bobby Pacho of Los Angeles here last night in Colorado's first championship prize fight in 23 years. Referee Jack Bloom stopped it after a minute and a half of the fourth when Pacho heaving helplessly against the ropes.

The busy Negro went to work from the start, crowding and flailing. Twice in the third he trapped

Pacho against the ropes and let fly with both pistons.

The fight was Armstrong's fifth in four weeks, backing up his opinion that "the best way to stay in shape to fight is by fighting every little while."

He heads eastward today to get ready for another battle Dec. 1 with Lou Ambers, who took the lightweight crown from Henry last summer.

Illini Aroused at Claims That Tom Harmon, Michigan Star, Is Better Than Grange

BY TOM SILER
CHICAGO —(P)—Sensational!
Tom Harmon, one and all will agree, is one of the year's finest backs, but the claim that he is the equal of Harold (Red) Grange has the football faithful down at the University of Illinois in a seething rage.

To many midwest grid followers and particularly Illini fans, Grange is the all-time tops for getting to payoff dirt quicker and oftener than anyone else ever did. But you can't put that line over to University of Michigan partisans.

Illinois and Michigan play at Champaign Saturday and the world is out that Harmon, leading scorer of the nation, is set to give the Illini a single-handed beating such as Michigan received at the hands of Grange 15 years ago.

That was the fall day in 1924 when the junior halfback star returned the opening kickoff 95 yards for a touchdown, then ran 70, 57 and 43 yards for three more touchdowns, all within the first 10 minutes of the game. In that short span he got his hands on the ball six times, scored four touchdowns and gained 286 yards. In all that day he played 42 minutes, picked up 402 yards in 21 tries, completed six passes for 64 yards, one for a touchdown, and rang up five touchdowns himself. Needless to say, Illinois won, 39-14.

"Red Grange was a great runner and Herb Joesting (Minnesota state) was a great buckler, but Harmon combines all the qualities of a great player, offensively as well as defensively," Crisler says.

Bob Zuppke, Illinois coach and developer of Grange, describes Harmon as the best back he has seen in a decade, but Grange is still in his book by any yardstick comparison.

"Red kicked well enough to make the punting for us," says Zuppke, "but we had Britton. As to defense, he didn't miss 'em at safety, they didn't like to throw pass on him, did they?"

Grange's largest crowd of the season is expected Saturday when Harmon is the magnet. Certainly the game itself isn't because undefeated and untied Michigan is overwhelming favorite to win for the Illini, which has yet to win a game.

Ed KLINGERT jolted a 593 se-

Bears, Giants Dominate Pros

Former Has Best Yardage Mark, Latter the Best Defense

New York — The Chicago Bears have scored the most points and the Washington Redskins have averaged the greatest yardage, but the New York Giants continue to show National Pro league teams that a tight defense is a major factor in winning football games.

The Giants have allowed a total of 39 points in six games while scoring only 77. The Bears have scored 170 points in seven games, but have had 98 scored against them. Washington has averaged 350 yards in six games and has accumulated 127 points, but has had 65 points scored against it.

The Redskins last week, the seventh week of the season, passed the Bears in yardage gained after the Chicago team had held the lead for six weeks. The Bears' average dropped to 303 as the Giants and Detroit broke the Chicago offense for two weeks.

The Cleveland Rams have completed 74 passes to lead in that department, but Washington had the best pass efficiency record, with 50 completions out of 94 attempts for an average of 53 per cent. The Rams have tossed the ball 160 times.

As a further indication that a well-balanced defense is at least as important as a good offense, Detroit, co-leader of the Western Division, has allowed opponents a total of only 56 points in six games. The Lions have scored 97 by themselves, with only the Chicago Cardinals below them in that division.

Next Sunday will find the scoring pacemakers and the two best defensive teams meeting as the Bears tackle the Green Bay Packers and the Lions play the Giants.

THROUGH WITH FOOTBALL by Phil Berube

Only 11 Unbeaten, Untied Grid Teams in Nation as Last Month of Play Nears

BY HUGH S. FULLERTON JR.

NEW YORK — The "pay-off" month of the college football season — November — starts this week with just the kind of games that can be expected in the more important half of the campaign.

The first half of the battle for national honors, winding up last Saturday produced about the results that could be expected. There were innumerable "upsets" at the start, dwindling in number as the teams began to show real strength and weakness. The end of October found not more than 11 unbeaten and untied survivors still in the race for the mythical national crown.

Starting part two, the "major" unbeaten and untied teams are: East-Cornell, Duquesne, Catholic, South-Tennessee, Kentucky, Midwest-Notre Dame, Michigan, Southwest-Texas A. and M., Rocky Mountain-Colorado Mines, Pacific coast-Oregon State, San Jose (Cal.) State.

Tied but still undefeated were Dartmouth and Georgetown, in the east; Tulane, North Carolina and Richmond, in the south; Nebraska and Oklahoma, in the Midwest; Southern California and U. C. L. A., on the west coast, and Utah (tied twice), in the Rocky Mountain belt.

Not all of these teams, of course, can be considered national title prospects. By the same token, there were a lot of real contenders which have been beaten, often by one point that sometimes spells the difference between a perfect season and a ruined one.

Contenders for sectional and conference championships take in a lot more ground. The situation, by the first weekend of November:

East: It's been a long time since any one team did so much to aid the prestige of eastern football as Cornell did last Saturday by whipping Ohio State, 23-14, after spotting the Big Ten "powerhouse" the first two touchdowns. That triumph automatically installed the big red team as the east's No. 1 power, and next Saturday's game against Columbia, despite the Lions' decisive 26-7 win over Virginia Military, shouldn't hurt Cornell's stock.

Duquesne, 13-0 winner over Texas Tech Friday, faces another stiff inter-sectional test against Marquette, and Catholic, 14-0 winner over Miami, meets Tulsa of the Missouri Valley conference.

Dartmouth vs. Yale
Dartmouth encounters its traditional troublesome enemy, Yale, but off the green's easy 16-0 win over Harvard and Yale's 27-7 licking by Michigan, Dartmouth figures to remain undefeated. Georgetown, after beating George Washington 7-0, meets West Virginia, which tied South Carolina, 6-6, Friday.

The biggest games on the eastern schedule pit Army, which hasn't shown much this season, against Notre Dame and Harvard against Princeton, which turned up with a 26-12 win over Brown. Notre Dame's unbeaten team just managed to stave off Carnegie Tech, 7-6, while the Cadets rolled Ursinus, 46-13.

Pennsylvania, knocked out of the picture by a 30-6 licking from North Carolina, meets Navy, 15-7 victim of Clemson Fordham, which came along as an eastern threat by whipping Pitt, 27-13, tackles Rice's hapless Owls in an inter-sectional test. New York U., 14-13 winner over a stubborn Georgia team, eases off against Lafayette, Boston college and Holy Cross, still ranked among the eastern leaders, play Auburn and Providence, respectively.

South: It's Tennessee, the nation's ranking team in last week's Associated Press poll, against Louisiana State with the Southeastern conference title as the probable stake. The Volunteers knocked off Mercer, 17-10, in last Saturday's breather, while L. S. U. turned back Vanderbilt, 12-6.

Kentucky in Major Battle
Kentucky, co-leader with Tennessee, Georgia Tech and Tulane, faces Alabama, which turned back Mississippi State, 7-0, an another major battle. Mississippi, beaten for the first time by Tulane, 18-6, encounters Vanderbilt. Georgia Tech place Duke, which gained a second-place tie in the Southern Conference with a hard-won 6-0 decision over Wake Forest. Tulane has an open date.

North Carolina, with the Southern conference pack on its heels returns to its own league to play North Carolina State, while Richmond tackles V. M. I.

Virginia meets Chicago, and Miami plays Texas Tech in the South's best inter-sectional tilts.

Midwest: In spite of that thumping from Cornell, Ohio State plays the leading role in the Big Ten, facing a traditional rival, Indiana. The Bucks still are tied with Michigan for the conference lead, while Indiana's Hoosiers, idle last week, are a real threat. Michigan should win another from Illinois, 13-0 victim of Northwestern. Northwestern plays Minnesota's so far disappointing team, and Iowa, 19-13 winner over Wisconsin, plays Purdue, which went to the west coast to take a 13-6 licking from Santa Clara.

The twin powers of the Big Six, Nebraska and Oklahoma, scored notable victories. Nebraska overwhelmed Kansas State, 25-9, and Oklahoma routed the Missouri Valley conference leader, Oklahoma Aggies, 41-0. Missouri gained a tie with Nebraska for the lead by whipping Iowa State, 21-6, without seeing "Pitchin' Paul" Christman.

The two leaders collide next Saturday. Oklahoma plays Iowa State, and Kansas meets Kansas State in a "consolation" game.

Southwest: The unbeaten Texas Aggies breezed past Baylor's Bears, 20-0 in their second Southwest conference game, but are tied for the lead with Texas University's sophomore team, which trimmed Rice, 16-12. The Aggies next meet Arkansas, beaten 7-0 by Villanova at Philadelphia, while the Longhorns play Southern Methodist, one of the most dangerous teams in the circuit, although it hasn't met a conference foe. Texas Christian and Baylor clash in another conference game.

Elimination Due
Pacific coast: One title contender is due for elimination this week when Oregon State plays Southern California on a neutral field at Portland, Ore. The Beavers, only undefeated and untied team in the loop, beat Washington State, 13-0, while Southern Cal., living up to its preseason promise after an uncertain start, defeated California, 26-0.

The winning team still will have to account for U. C. L. A., which beat Oregon, 16-6, to put the Webfoots out of the picture. The uclans play California Saturday. Washington, which conquered Stanford by an odd 8-5 score, plays Montana, 13-0 winner over Idaho. Oregon meets Washington State, and Stanford faces Santa Clara.

Sunday "independent" games pit Loyola of Los Angeles against San Francisco and St. Mary's against Dayton of Ohio.

Rocky Mountain: Denver threw the mountain states big seven into a state of considerable confusion by holding "unbeatable" Utah to a 7-7 tie. That left them tied for the lead and the race wide open. Comebacking Colorado, which downed Wyoming 27-7 for its second victory in three conference starts, is the Utes' next opponent while Denver plays Brigham Young. Colorado Mines maintained its unbeaten status in the older Rocky Mountain conference with a 50-7 triumph over Colorado college.

Georgie Pace to 'Fight Anybody'

NBA's Bantamweight Champion Has Numerous Challengers

Cleveland — (P) — Little Georgie Pace, sporting nine new suits and the world's bantamweight boxing crown, set out today to emblazon his name beside that of his tutor, Johnny Kilbane.

The National Boxing association put the 23-year-old Negro, a carbon copy of Kilbane in his clever counter-punching style, on the throne when Champion Sixto Escobar abdicated to enter the featherweight ranks.

The Puerto Rican had refused to fight Pace, claiming the purses were too small. Pace based his demands on victories over several boys who had licked Escobar.

"Well fight anybody, anywhere," thundered Pace's manager Tom Stanley.

Kilbane, the popular Irishman who ruled the featherweight ranks from 1912 to 1923, first spotted Pace on a city playground fight show. As an amateur Georgie took 60 of 64 bouts. He moved into pro circles in 1936 and Stanley says he has won 28 fights and lost only one, that on a technical disqualification. Eleven victories came on knockouts.

Inability to get fights was Pace's greatest handicap in his rise to the top.

Now challenges are coming from all directions, including one from Johnny Gaudes, of Milwaukee, who has filed a title claim. Pace will tangle with Baby Yack, Canadian champion, in a non-little argument in Toronto Nov. 13.

He has signed an NBA agreement to defend his title within 60 days against K. O. Morgan, of Detroit; Lou Salica, of Oakland, Calif.; Tony Olivera, of New York, or a fighter named by the British Boxing board.

Nic's Tavern bagged two games by defeating Van's alleys. Nic Liesch hit a total of 517 for the winners, while Ed Vandenberg was high for the losers with a 534 series.

Boat Owners are Warned of Penalty

Crafts, Owners Must be Registered With Customs Officer

Motorboat owners on federal controlled waters in Wisconsin who have not registered their craft with the collector of customs were warned Saturday by Collector Henry V. Schwalbach, Milwaukee, that penalties are being imposed on all violators.

Schwalbach has returned from an inspection trip through the state during which he emphasized the importance of registering boats. Since congress placed motorboats on federal waters under permanent registration four years ago, as a step toward curbing smuggling, 7,500 Wisconsin boats have been registered, Schwalbach said.

These boats do not include commercial vessels of five net tons or more, or pleasure vessels of at least 16 gross tons. Such vessels must be documented in the office of the collector of customs.

Motorboats in Wisconsin must be registered, Schwalbach said if they are on Lake Michigan, Green Bay, Lake Winnebago, the Fox, Wolf, Wisconsin and Mississippi rivers, and all contributing waters up to the first obstruction or dam without lock to allow passage of vessels.

The owner of any boat on Wisconsin waters under federal control as set forth above may register his craft by applying to the collector of customs on the third floor of the Milwaukee post office. Ten dollar fines are being assessed for possessing an unnumbered boat, failure to report purchase, loss or destruction of a numbered boat. Fines of $100 are assessed for failure to carry proper equipment such as lights, whistle and life preservers.

Chaffin Chatter

By Gordon R. McIntyre

WITH THE SEASON drawing to an end, the interest in ye old football game guessing contest is waning and the guessers aren't doing so well. As a matter of fact some of the localities didn't have a single winner this week. But don't give up the ship just yet; remember that someone is going to get two tickets to the Wisconsin-Purdue game at Madison because he picked the greatest number of correct scores for the season. The ballot for the Nov. 11 games will be the last with the big announcement the following week.

Bob Bowers, 419 E. Spring street, wins the ticket to the Lawrence-Ripon game here Saturday because he picked one correct score, missed one by a point and had 16 winning teams. The latter enabled him to nose out Jess Halvorson, 712 E. Calumet street, who couldn't equal the winning teams. Jess had one score right and missed one by a point. Bowers picked the Northwestern-Illinois score correctly and missed on Santa Clara-Purdue by a point.

Neenah—Paul Longhurst, Clark street, who picked Knox over Beloit and Northwestern over Illinois, 7 to 0 and 13 to 0, respectively.

Kimberly—No winners.

Clintonville—Don Myer, 99 East Madison street, who picked Notre Dame's squeak against Carnegie Tech, 7 to 6.

Kaukauna—Clarence O'Connor, route 3, overshadowed the field with four correct scores. He picked Marquette over Arizona, 13 to 6, Ripon over Monmouth, 13 to 7, Northwestern over Illinois, 13 to 0, and Notre Dame over Carnegie Tech, 7 to 6.

Little Chute—Vic Hartjes—again—. He picked Michigan over Yale, 27 to 7, and Neenah's win over West DePere, 7 to 0, and missed on Northwestern over Illinois by a point.

New London—Couldn't find a winner in the pack.

Menasha—Gordon Meier, 201 Elm street, who picked one correct score and had 13 winning teams. The latter enabled him to break a tie with Chi and Ray Nevakoski and Ruben Prunuske. They picked one score correctly but couldn't match Meier's winning teams.

Illinois Bans 3 Fighters Named In 'Fixed' Bouts

Harry Thomas Says He Took Dive for Schmeling and Galento

CHICAGO—(AP)—Illinois boxing rings were closed today to fight managers Nate Lewis and Joe Jacobs and fighters Tony Galento, Max Schmeling and Harry Thomas, all heavyweights.

The Illinois State Athletic commission barred all of them yesterday after publication of charges by Thomas that his bouts with Schmeling and Galento were "fixed" fights. The commission said none of them could operate in this state "until every vestige of suspicion is cleared away."

Thomas, who lives in Eagle Bend, Minn., lost to Schmeling by a technical knockout in the eighth round, Dec. 13, 1937 in New York. He lost to Galento by a technical knockout in the third round, Nov. 14, 1938, in Philadelphia.

The Chicago Tribune, which published the charges originally, said Thomas made affidavits that both fights were "fakes," and that they "had been decided weeks before the fighters entered the ring."

Thomas' manager at the time was Lewis, veteran Chicago fight manager. Jacobs managed Galento and Schmeling. The Tribune quoted Thomas as saying the "faked" fights were arranged by Lewis and Jacobs. Thomas declared he received about $13,700 for his services in the two engagements.

No Jurisdiction

The athletic commission said it had been informed by Attorney General John E. Cassidy that it had no jurisdiction to conduct an investigation since none of the fighters or fight managers involved held licenses in Illinois or had applied for any.

However, it is the opinion of this commission and Gov. Henry Horner, it added, "that none of the accused parties will be allowed to engage in any boxing enterprise in the state until there has been a complete hearing of the charges by Mr. Thomas."

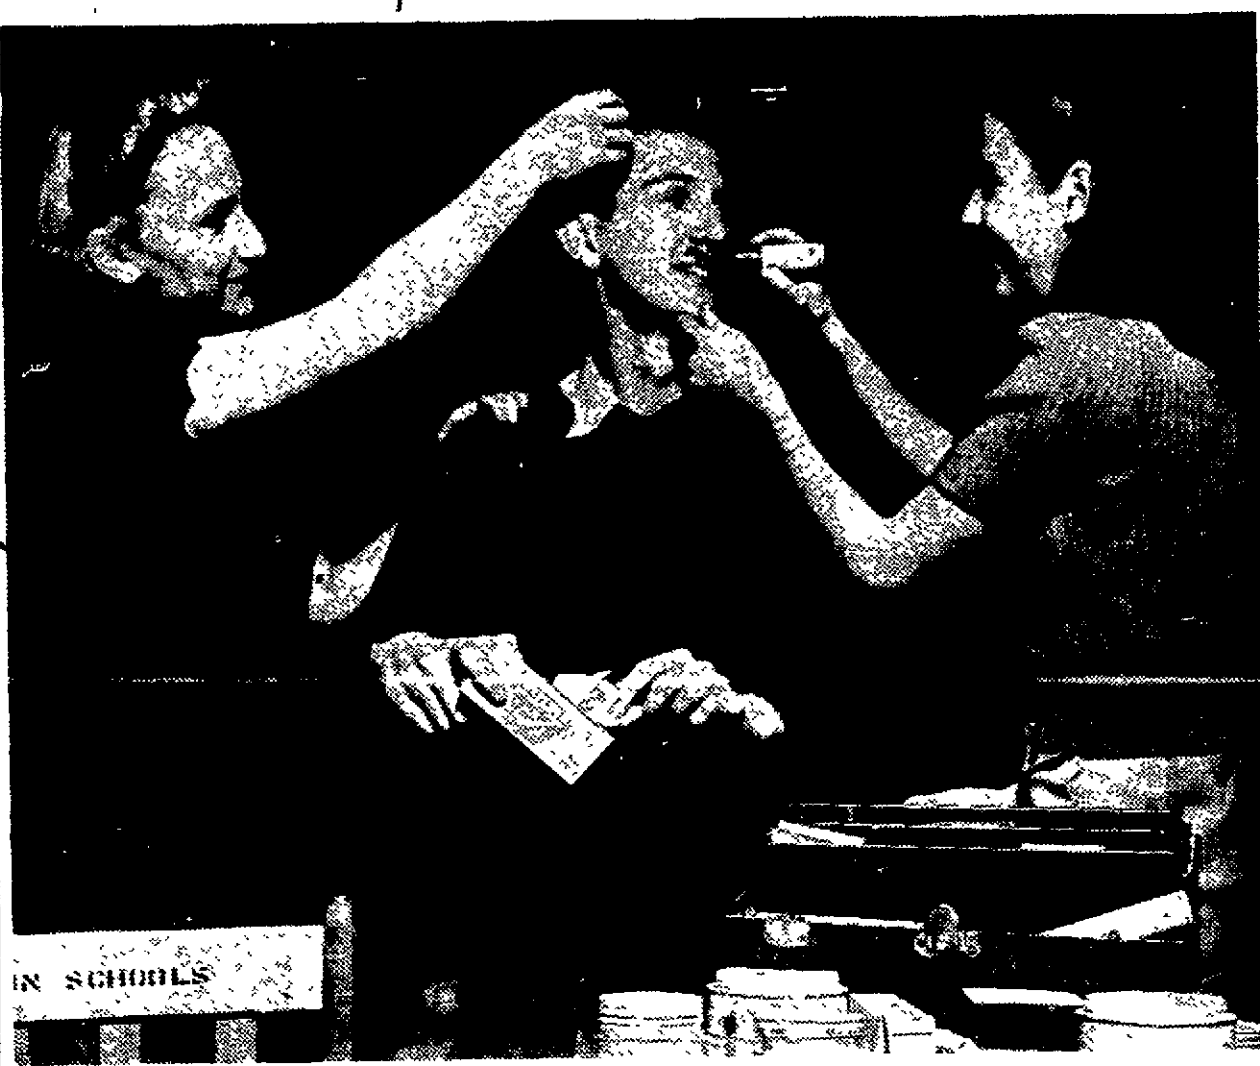

In New York, Gen. John J. Phelan, chairman of the state boxing commission, said he would order an investigation of the Thomas-Schmeling fight which was held there "if the evidence warrants."

Joe Jacobs, in New York, scoffed at "the charges."

"I don't know what Thomas is talking about and I don't think he does, either," said Jacobs. "If he was gonna dive, he could have done it a lot earlier without taking all that beating."

In Chicago, Lewis said that if Thomas "threw" the fights "he did so without my knowledge and without any instructions of that nature from me."

"I have been connected with boxing since 1900 and in all those years the shadow of suspicion never has crossed my path. My record is clear. Thomas' story hurt me deeply."

Descendant of Washington Elm Planted on High School Campus

A bit of American history has been transplanted from Boston to the front campus of Appleton High school. Aspiring students of American history may now look out of the windows and see a descendant of the Washington Elm, under whose branches George Washington is said to have taken command of the first American army.

Now a permanent part of the High school's archives is a certificate which testifies to the authenticity of the tree. It reads: "This certifies that Appleton High school is owner of Elm No. 53, a direct descendant of the Washington Elm that stood on Cambridge Common, the tree under which General George Washington took command of the first American army, on the morning of the third of July, 1775."

This famous tree, which biologists know as "Umus Americana," was a large tree when Cambridge gave first settled, and the Harvard book gives its dimensions as nearly 100 feet in height, over 18 feet in trunk circumference and 90 feet in the spread of its branches. Since 1900, however, old age and the ravages of the leopard moth so weakened the tree that it was necessary to cut it down. Now merely a table: marks the spot where George Washington first drew his sword as commander-in-chief of the American armies.

The elm can still live, however, on the campus of Appleton High school, for the late Jackson Dawson, noted horticulturist, grafted a branch of the dying tree and saved it for posterity. This first graft now grows in the grounds of the public library at Westley, Mass. In 1925 four grafts were made from this tree. It is from these trees that the present scion of the Washington Elm came. Two other elms on the campus were given to the high school last spring by the Daughters of the American Revolution.

The machine was built in Chicago for Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd's forthcoming polar expedition.

UNCLE RAY'S CORNER

CAME FROM RUSSIA
Bulgaria does not contain quite as many square miles as the state of Pennsylvania. It has about 6,000,000 people.
One side of Bulgaria is on the Black Sea. Turkey is a close neighbor and so are Rumania, Greece and Yugoslavia.
Bulgaria helped Germany fight the World war. As a result, it lost some of the land it had owned before.

Alexander giving up throne
Some persons suppose that if the nations of Europe took back the boundaries they had before the World war, everything would go well. That, however, seems to be only a fancy. The old boundaries did not make all nations happy, and in some cases the borders did not seem fair.

Pieces of land which Bulgaria used to own were taken from other countries in wars before the World war. That sort of thing might go on and on and on. Some persons say there should be a union of nations with free trade, just as there is free trade in the United States between the states, and in Canada between the provinces.

Bulgaria is a kingdom. Its present king, Boris III, came to the throne in 1918. Most of the power, however, is in the hands of law-makers chosen by the voters. Bulgarian women over 21 can vote - whether they are married or not.

Bulgaria used to be in Turkey. It did not break free until the present century. In the later years of Turkey's "ownership," Bulgaria was looked on as a province of Turkey with a measure of home rule. In 1886 a Bulgarian prince, Alexander, was forced to give up his right to rule by a revolt of officers.

The Bulgarians have been called "the Spartans of modern Europe." Their food is made up largely of black bread, corn, cheese and sour milk. The men in general are healthy and strong, and fight hard in wars.

The early Bulgarians or "Bulgars" appear to have come from the Volga river region of Russia. They built up their own country about 1,250 years ago.

Seven centuries later, the Turks conquered Bulgaria. After that, for a period of more than 500 years, Turkey held power over the people. It was only after a revolt in 1808 that the final step was taken to make the nation free again.

Most Bulgarians are Greek Catholics. They did not want to be under the rule of Turkey because the Turks were of another religion.

Women Often Handle Money Better Than Do Their Husbands

BY DOROTHY DIX

Dear Dorothy Dix—My husband has become one of the leaders in his union. That is all right by me, but down there he has been hearing a lot about "economics" and he comes home and tells me that I don't know anything about financing and economics, and it makes me mad. Maybe I don't. They are just fancy words to me, but I'm the woman who takes what her husband gives her and pays the bills. And after bringing up three children, putting them through school, worrying how to make ends meet and how to save 50 cents out of the grocery money, and keeping everybody fed and clothed through layoffs and strikes, he can't talk to me about not knowing anything about economics. When he comes home from these meetings and tells me how little I know about handling money I could crown him, and I think I am going to before long. MAD MA.

Answer: Right you are, Mal I am with you 100 per cent, and I am sorry I can't be there at the crowning, because any husband who has seen the mistakes that his wife worked with his pay envelope has certainly got his nerve when he tells her that she doesn't know how to handle money.

Maybe we women are not financiers after the Wall Street school of thought in the matter. Maybe we wouldn't know how to float a bond issue or underwrite a world's fair, but I'll bet my bottom dollar if I see a woman with a little shabby black bag in her hand, who has reared a big family and kept them fed and clothed and got them educated on $25 a week was made Secretary of the Treasury she would have balanced the budget long ago.

Why, it is a matter of common knowledge that a woman can get twice as much out of a dollar as a man can. Watch 'em shop if you don't believe that. When the average man goes into a store he takes the first thing that is offered him, and he doesn't look to see if it is all wool and a yard wide, if it is color is fast, or if it will look like something the cat brought in after the first washing.

He doesn't chew a corner of a napkin to see if it is all linen or pure cotton that is glazed. He doesn't try on forty hats to be sure he's getting the one that is the most becoming to him. He doesn't walk ten blocks to save 2 cents a pound on a rum steak. He doesn't watch out for cut-rate sales and fight for his life over a necktie on a bargain table. He doesn't say "no" to the collectors who are getting up money for a present to the boss when the baby needs shoes or the milk bill is overdue. No, indeed. So long as the average man has any money, you can take it away from him as easily as you can take candy away from a baby. But it takes a surgical operation to pry it away from his wife, and that is why the men who have small incomes turn over their pay envelopes to their wives. They know Ma will get ten times more out of it than they can.

Mother couldn't make a speech on economics, but she knows how to practice them. And if that isn't handicapping I'd like to know what is.

Girls Make Mistake in Being Family Martyrs
Dear Miss Dix—I am a girl of 22, the youngest of a family of seven. For some time I have supported my mother and maintained a home. Two of my brothers, both in their thirties, live at home with the exception of the summer months, during which they work and earn excellent salaries, but at no time do they contribute a cent toward the upkeep of the house. When winter comes they rush back home and take life easy, while I pay the bills. The third brother, having a wife and two small children, has purchased a house trailer in which he rolls up to our back door and parks it. My mother becomes nursemaid to his children, and he and his wife and children eat the food I provide. Now, what shall I do? I am tired of being the family goat and having to support men who are more able to work than I am, yet I do not want to hurt my mother's feelings. UNHAPPY DAUGHTER.

Answer: The only thing you can do is to break up your home and take your mother to live with you in some boarding house, where it will be impossible for your parasite brothers to sponge upon you. Just as long as you keep house, as you do now, your mother will consider that it is "her" house and that she has a perfect right to have "her" children come and live with her. It will never occur to her how cruelly un-

ADVICE TO SECOND WIFE
Dear Mrs. Post: My fiancé was married only a few months when his wife died. During the two years I have been going out with him, he has always remembered her birthday and their wedding anniversary by putting flowers on her grave. Once or twice I have taken care of ordering these flowers for him. Now that we are being married I love, or whether he is going to make a fetish of his first love which you will never be able to quite live up to. Many men set up this first-wife ideal unknowingly. Perhaps if they were warned about it in the beginning—if they were made to realize what effect too great a display of sentiment for a first wife is certain to have upon the feelings of a second wife—this forewarning might very well insure the happiness of the second marriage.

How to Keep in Neighbor's Good Graces
Dear Mrs. Post: We are soon to have as next door neighbor some one I went to school with years ago—some one I have since seen only as often as I had to. This person is well-known for her gossip tongue and trouble-making, and frankly I am very upset that I am to have her for such a close neighbor. As a neighbor, what will I be expected to do for her? I want to keep on good terms with her because to fall out would be unfortunate for me; on the other hand, I want to do the minimum in encouraging any intimacy.

Answer: I think you yourself have answered this. Be very polite but try to keep on formal terms. Don't run in and out of her house, and don't encourage her to run in

Overruffs Own Trick to Make Five-Club Bid

BY ELY CULBERTSON

The late Norman Bonney of Boston (whose recent death shocked and saddened thousands of bridge players) was known for his adept handling of the cards, particularly as declarer. Very much of an individualist, Mr. Bonney's bidding was not always easy for partners to follow, but he left nothing to be desired in the play. The following hand, which he played several years ago, is a good illustration of his skill:

South, dealer. Neither side vulnerable.

♠ 7 5 3
♥ 10 6 4 3

SOUTH

♣ A K Q 10 6

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 club		2 no trump	Pass
3 clubs		3 no trump	Pass
5 clubs		Pass	Pass

Mr. Bonney was South, the declarer. On the face of things there no trump (bid at one point by North) would have been a better contract, but, strangely enough, could not have been made against the best defense, whereas the less sound contract of five clubs not only could be but was made.

West led the diamond jack. East won and continued the suit. On winning with the diamond king declarer laid down the ace and king of clubs, receiving the sad news that East still had the guarded jack. Undaunted by this break, Mr. Bonney cashed his three spade tricks, then laid down the ace and deuce of hearts. The fortunate lay of hearts was compensation for the bad trump break and resulted in this four card position:

♥ 10 6

SOUTH

♣ Q 10 6

On lead with the heart king, East correctly returned a diamond. Mr. Bonney ruffed his with the club six and then overruffed in dummy with the club seven! Now the spade eight was led and East was trapped. If he discarded his diamond, declarer would discard the heart jack and the play remaining in dummy would easily be able to make the queen and ten of clubs. Actually, East chose to ruff the good spade, whereupon Mr. Bonney overruffed with the ten spot, drew East's last trump, and cashed the heart jack for the fulfilling trick.

It should be observed that South's ruff with the club six and overruff with the club seven were absolute vital to his success. If he had thrown off his heart jack and ruffed in dummy, the next lead would have forced him to ruff in his own hand and then concede a trick to East's club jack.

talk with him frankly about this and ask him the question you have asked me. From your talk with him you can of course judge whether your own happiness is going to be much greater because he is capable of faithful devotion to those he loves, or whether he is going to make a fetish of his first love which you will never be able to quite live up to. Many men set up this first-wife ideal unknowingly. Perhaps if they were warned about it in the beginning—if they were made to realize what effect too great a display of sentiment for a first wife is certain to have upon the feelings of a second wife—this forewarning might very well insure the happiness of the second marriage.

Dolly Tree's latest creation for Billie Burke is a negligee in pure silk satin and chiffon with three rows of lace forming shoulder epaulettes and a trio of inserts for the full, gathered skirt. In deep cream, the nightgown carries out the same theme with the exception of a lace hemline. Miss Burke ties a cord of heavy cream silk at the waistline, which is shirred in a wide band, thus accentuating the waist and giving a full blouse effect to the bodice. The negligee has a cap like bows of matching lace which may be tied over the curls before retiring.

SLIM-WAISTED

There's nothing like a fresh, bracing new housecoat to buoy up lagging spirits! And Anne Adams' Pattern 4295 is really irresistible! First there's the smart, all-around, one-piece yoke. Then see the square young neckline, with its dart-and-button trim! The perky puffed sleeves are finished with novel bands. You'll like the high, pointed waistline that smoothly "belittles" your middle. Have a crossed, front-buttoned belt, a half-sash that ties in back or a ribbon belt. And choose a cheery, flowered fabric, or perhaps a checked cotton with bright contrast trim.

Pattern 4295 is available in misses' and women's sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20, 32, 34, 36, 38 and 40. Size 16 takes 3 1/2 yards 36 inch fabric. Send your order to Appleton Post-Crescent, Pattern Department, 243 West 17th St., New York, N. Y. Send fifteen cents (15c) in coins for this Anne Adams pattern. Write plainly size, name, address and style number.

My Neighbor Says—
Tropical fish must be removed from the garden pool before water in pool freezes. Goldfish will, however, live in a pool from one end of the year to the other, if it's deep enough and if water in pool only freezes over the top.

In preparing Welsh rabbits be careful not to overcook them or they will become stringy.

Get a large tray, shallow box or a small basket and keep all your cleaning utensils in it—soap, water, rags, brushes, etc. You'll always have them together and can carry them about the house easily for any cleaning job.

Bake fruit cakes in covered casseroles to keep them moist. Fill the casseroles not more than two-thirds full, since the cake will rise. Before storing the cake allow it to cool. Then wrap it in several thicknesses of waxed paper and seal airtight by pouring melted paraffin around the edges where the cover meets the dish. Use a glass, china or earthenware dish.

and out of yours. The fact that she is coming to live next door to you does not obligate you to do anything more than would be necessary were she living half a mile away. In fact, if she should ask you why you can say quite frankly that there is a most sensible rule which says that very close neighbors have to observe greater formality than those who do not live quite so close together. This is a perfectly obvious maxim to which she cannot possibly take exception.

New tricks for old foods: put cranberries in cabbage salad; stuff cooked, glazed apples with cubed bananas mixed with some peanuts (roasted) and serve warm or cold, topped with a little hard sauce; stuff large, seeded stewed prunes with cottage cheese, serve or lettuce sprinkle with shredded nuts and salad dressing; use orange marmalade in a thin layer as topping for baked bread puddings, adding the marmalade during the last 15 minutes of cooking.

Dolly Tree's latest creation for Billie Burke is a negligee in pure silk satin and chiffon with three rows of lace forming shoulder epaulettes and a trio of inserts for the full, gathered skirt. In deep cream, the nightgown carries out the same theme with the exception of a lace hemline. Miss Burke ties a cord of heavy cream silk at the waistline, which is shirred in a wide band, thus accentuating the waist and giving a full blouse effect to the bodice. The negligee has a cap like bows of matching lace which may be tied over the curls before retiring.

Not Easy for Children to Confess Their Mistakes

BY ANGELO PATRI

Harry was a pleasant, useful boy about the house until something came over him. Nobody could imagine what that could be, but plainly it had come over the boy and he was changed for the worse. He scowled. He was irritable and rude when spoken to and bad tempered when corrected. "You can't look at him; you can't speak to him; you can't live with him, and you can't throw him out of the house. But something has to be done for the comfort of the rest of us."

The teacher noted the same change. Lessons that used to be excellent fell to passing and what used to call out enthusiasm now brought only a reluctant response. "If you don't take care, my boy, you're going to find yourself at the bottom of the class, soon," said the teacher.

"So what?" muttered Harry, and the teacher could not have been more astonished had one of the kindergarten children spat in his eye.

"What's gotten into the boy?" said the teacher.

"But the doctor found nothing wrong. 'He's just out of sorts. He'll get over it. Don't notice him.'"

Try not to notice a cinder in your eye and you'll be in about the same position as Harry's family were in. People influence the atmosphere of the place they live in by their moods, and a person whose mood is dark can make a whole family ill.

Something must be done about such persons. And something had to be done about this boy. But what? Mother brooded over the matter for a long time; then one day, taking her courage and pride in her hands, she went over to the good old clergyman who had fathered them all since the start of the family. "I'll manage to get hold of him and see what's bothering him," said he. "It looks to me like a guilty conscience. It can make a child about as mean and miserable as a good-for-nothing as anything on earth. I'll do my best and you keep praying."

Then the story was cleared up. Harry had formed a habit which he felt and knew was not a good one. He had been living under a feeling of guilt for months. He had not dared tell anybody what was troubling him, and he dared not rest until he had cleared himself of the pressure of his bad deeds.

"He only a boy, you know," said the clergyman. "He knows words but things, but words don't help much in the face of experience. He will be better now, having this off his mind, and we'll all help him get over this hard place and let him see that we don't think he's gone to the bad because he made this mistake. If children only could tell what bothered them and rid themselves of it they would do much better."

But confessing their fears, their mistakes, their wrong-doing, is not easy for children. The way must be cleared for them. The must be gently to understand that they can have a hearing, without blame; that they can have consolation without preachments; that they can have a new start without prejudice. Who so fitted for this service as the family clergyman? He isn't called upon nearly so often as he might be. You know he has to be asked for help when help is needed because he isn't exactly a mind reader. But he is often, and often a mind healer. Give him a chance to help the troubled children.

Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers on the care and development of children. Write him in care of this paper, enclosing a three-cent stamped, addressed envelope for reply.

Beauty and You

by PATRICIA LINDSAY

Science maintains that color-blind women are extremely rare, but when we see how many pretty girls make the mistake of using rosy rouge, sun-tan powder and costly lipstick, we wonder!

The rules of color make-up are not difficult to follow. Powder and powder base should match the skin or be only a shade lighter. If the skin is at all sallow a slight pink cast to the powder might improve the skin tones. If the complexion is naturally a tinge too high colored, a trace of green in the powder will tone down the pinkness.

Lipstick should have the same basic coloring as the rouge, but may be rosy, bright or dark depending upon one's personal preference and the contour of the lips. Nail lacquer, of course, should be selected to match lip color.

Only true brunettes should use black mascara or eye brow pencil. Brown, light or dark, is usually more natural looking. Grey, grey-blue and brown eye-shadows are the only ones we recommend except for certain exotic feminine types may wear green or lavender for evening.

One other cosmetic color to watch is liquid powder used after a bath on neck and shoulders if you are wearing a low cut evening dress. This must be the same tone as your powder foundation so as to blend nicely where one leaves off and the other begins.

Shades
Many women are not aware that powder foundations, powders and powdered bath fragrances come in several shades. If you do not like the shade shown you by the salesgirl ask to see the other shades.

GOOD THINGS FOR THE HOME

Marie Schneider's Tested Recipes

Drop Cookies

A woman can't have too many good recipes for drop cookies in her file. It's always a comfort to have cookies on hand for those occasions when there isn't time to prepare a dessert. Cookies with a dish of canned or stewed fruit are always satisfactory. And there is no cookie like a drop cookie for the homemaker whose baking is necessarily an odd job tucked in among her other household duties. Even if you have plenty of time, and are always prepared with a dessert ahead of time you'll like these cookies.

Butterscotch Cookies
1 cup butter, 1 teaspoon soda
1 cup brown sugar, 1 teaspoon salt
2 eggs, 1 cup sugar cream
2 cups flour, 1 teaspoon vanilla
1 teaspoon baking powder, 2-3 cup nuts, chopped
Cream butter, add sugar gradually, and cream thoroughly. Blend in well beaten eggs. Sift flour, baking powder, soda and salt together, and add to creamed mixture alternately with sour cream. Blend in vanilla and nuts. Chill until dough is firm. Drop by teaspoonfuls on lightly greased baking sheet. Leave space of at least 2 inches between each cookie to allow for spreading. Bake 10 to 15 minutes in a moderately hot oven 400 degrees F. Makes 5 dozen cookies. When cookies are cool spread with Butter Icing.

Butter Icing
6 tablespoons vanilla, 1 teaspoon butter
12 cups confectioners' sugar
Melt butter, keep over heat until it is golden brown. Blend in confectioners' sugar. Add vanilla. Stir in hot water until icing is right consistency to spread smoothly. This makes sufficient icing for about 50 cookies (2 1/2 inches in diameter).

Chocolate Pecan Wafers
1 cup shortening, 3 oz. chocolate, 1 cup sugar, melted, 2 eggs, well beaten, 1 cup sifted flour, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1 cup pecans, chopped, 1 teaspoon salt
Cream shortening, add sugar gradually and cream well. Add the beaten eggs and mix thoroughly. Add melted chocolate and blend. Add flour and pecans and mix well. Drop from tip of teaspoon on greased baking sheet. Bake in moderately slow oven 325 degrees F. 12 to 15 minutes. Makes 2 1/2 dozen.

"The Lady in Red" was the epitome of chic, when Lana Turner walked in the commissary in a two-piece red tuxedo suit. Faultlessly tailored, the gored skirt was short and flared, and topped by a double-breasted jacket buttoned in small black velvet belts. The tuxedo collar was also in black velvet and the starlet repeated the velvet in a huge bustle bow on the back of her pill box red wool hat. Miss Turner matched the costume color with brilliant lipstick, wore no other make-up, and carried black suede bag and gloves. Champagne sheer hose and black suede high-heeled oxfords completed the striking ensemble.

To keep tile floors clean and shiny, wash them well with a sponge frequently dipped in hot water and soap suds. Wipe off quickly with a soft, clean cloth.

CASE RECORDS OF A PSYCHOLOGIST

By Dr. George W. Crane
Psychologist, Northwestern University

Case Records of a Psychologist.
Recently an army officer came to me because the army doctor had found his blood pressure to be 215. Other physicians found it only 138. But every time an army doctor took it the reading was well over 200. This case, like Lorenzo's below, was a cousin to stuttering, except some different muscles had become a slave to fear.

CASE O-186: Lorenzo J., aged 21, is a promising looking pitcher. "I came up to the majors two years ago," his catcher informed me, "and looked like one of the prize rookies of the season."

"On the way to training camp he developed an acute attack of appendicitis and had to be taken to the nearest hospital for an operation. He got along fine and was on his feet in 10 days. But when he didn't do any pitching for 6 weeks, then he began training, and looked good in some relief roles a few times, so he was made a starting pitcher."

"That's when the trouble began. He simply falls apart when he faces the batters in an actual game, though he has worlds of stuff during batting practice."

"He is so wild that he usually is taken out within an inning or two, but even if he gets by the first inning, he is ill when he comes to the bench and I have frequently seen him vomit."

"Repeated medical examinations have shown nothing wrong with him. He has no adhesions, nor does he suffer any abdominal pain. Besides, he can blaze them across the plate for 9 innings of batting practice. It's only in an official game that he goes to pieces."

"Dr. Crane, it would be a shame to have such a talented man shut out from the majors, since we need big league pitching in a bad way. What is wrong with this kid?"

DIAGNOSIS:
This young fellow doubtless has stage fright. He is afraid. And his fear has fastened itself upon his gastro-intestinal tract, which is a common occurrence in men as well as women.

In similar circumstances, however, some people develop stuttering, which means their social fear has attached itself to the muscles of the throat and larynx.

Others find this fear affecting their hands, so they tremble violently till it is almost impossible for them to write or hold a cup of coffee. I have recently had several interviews with prominent business men who were afflicted with this inability to write their names in public.

Some people find that their fear attaches to their large bowel, and gives rise to spastic colic. One of our star athletes once got an acute attack of diarrhea purely on a nervous basis when he first confronted a large stadium full of rooters.

Many people find that they have irritable bladders in a social situation, and are humiliated to tears by this apparent misfortune.

The Power Of Fear
That renowned professor of medicine, Sir William Osier, once stated that syphilis can simulate any disease. In like manner, we might say that fear can produce anything from high blood pressure to nausea and vomiting.

Fear can even raise the white blood cell count and the body temperature, thus producing actual organic changes usually associated with germ disease.

Lorenzo simply needs to read this column regularly and follow some of the practical therapy which we furnish via the educational charts and bulletins occasionally offered herewith.

It has always surprised me that our large baseball magnates will spend huge sums buying players and having them operated upon for minor injuries, yet fail to realize that many star rookies fail to make that grade chiefly because of fear and psychological difficulties.

Many of the ailing arms and other supposed injuries of athletes are more psychological than physical. It is a shame to let talented rookies go back to the minors for lack of a little applied psychology. Follow the instructions below and send for my bulletin on "How to Control the Emotions."

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing stamped, self-addressed envelope and time to cover travel or printing costs when you seek personal advice or one of his psychological charts.)

After A Man's Heart

by JEAN RANDALL

YESTERDAY: Iris charms Tim into thinking she was the unconscious partner to a fraud. Tim tries to win Buff's approval of Iris. Neither Buff nor George is fooled.

Chapter 20
Rattlesnake
"Listen, Tim," George said presently sitting on the bed and holding one shoe in his hand. "If I hear a rattlesnake rattling, I don't inquire into his motive. I don't even pause to find out if he's annoyed with me or with a chipmunk that's crossed his trail. I just tell myself it's a rattler, and I light out for other parts. Unless," he finished deliberately, "I happen to have a stout stick close at hand, in which case I—"

"That's enough!" Tim's voice and eyes were angry. "This didn't behave well toward me—toward us both last summer; but she's not the menace you're trying to make me believe. Talk to her yourself."

"Not me!" George tied a shoe string smartly, put on the other shoe, and stood up. "There's an old proverb my grandfather used to remind me of: if a mule kicks you once, it's his fault; twice, it's your own. It makes no difference to me if the mule in this case has all the beauty and charm in the world. I'm staying outside the range of its heels."

Tim controlled his rising wrath. "Look here, George, you and I are good friends. You stuck to me through a lot. I owe you more than I can say. But not even you can call the girl I love a rattlesnake and a mule—" Anger retreated before the absurdity of it. Both men burst into a shout of laughter, and for the time being the subject was dropped.

Tim took Iris to call upon Buff, a sweet and wist

Merchants Will Join Jaces In Promotion of Christmas, Seasonal Sales Activities

Neenah — The Neenah Junior Chamber of Commerce sparked a concerted campaign, embodied in a Christmas activities program and a seasonal sales plan to keep business in Neenah at a dinner meeting of more than 60 merchants and Jaces last evening at the Neenah club.

A. D. Murphy, Green Bay, secretary of the Green Bay Association of Commerce, was the guest speaker.

Although a committee of 14 merchants was named from which they will seek counsel, the Jaces assumed the responsibility of promoting one of the most extensive retail promotion campaigns inaugurated in Neenah, and were given wholehearted support from the tradesmen.

The Christmas activities program in itself will be an extensive undertaking, for the decoration of Wisconsin avenue and commercial street for the Yule season will be entirely revamped and will cost around a $1,000.

The seasonal sales plan, too, is a year around campaign.

New Decorations
Neenah — Two main thoroughfares will be brilliantly and gaily decorated to enhance the Christmas spirit during the Yule season. The merchants agreed that the Jaces should purchase new ornamental light post decorations. The decorations will consist of 9-foot high candles on each post, and the 108 pieces will be 10 inches in diameter, constructed of red corrugated paper tubes and bracket support. Each piece costs $3.

The Jaces will take over the annual Christmas music program. The program consists of amplifying Christmas carols over several loud speaking system placed at strategic points throughout the city. Local music organization furnish the music the week preceding Christmas.

A Christmas opening will be held Nov. 22, and all merchants will have their stocks on exhibition in their display windows. While the Christmas "open house" will be Dec. 4.

Koffarnus Chairman
Leo Koffarnus is chairman of the Christmas activities committee, and he is assisted by Ralph Larson, William Chudacoff, Arthur Weston, Lyall Williams, Henry Werner and Ralph Thomas.

The merchants also agreed to keep their display windows lighted until 9:30 every night, for as Elmer H. Radtke, president, pointed out, it puts life into Neenah's business section at night.

The seasonal sales campaign, which was submitted by Milton Boehm, chairman of the retail committee, was accepted by the merchants. It was agreed to hold two dollar days each year, one in August and the other in February. Spring and fall openings, which will be held on Thursday nights and which have been promoted by the Jaces, will be continued. Further investigations will be made, however, if plans for attracting the farm trade into Neenah and sponsoring of a Neenah prosperity day.

The merchants also agreed that they would contribute toward a special fund, the one assessment to be made each year, for promotion activities. The fund will be administered by the Jaces who will submit a detailed report on finances at the end of the year.

Merchant Committee
The committee of merchants which will work with the young men's organization in the various promotions consists of Max Schalk, Herman Krause, Mrs. Herbert Tews, Arthur Schultz, Gus Kellahs, W. R. Werner, Otto Leber, L. Ladin, Harold Meyer, Lyall Williams, William Krueger, Charles Morton, Ed Nyman and Arthur Weston.

In his talk, Murphy pointed out the need for a senior chamber of commerce in Neenah, explaining that cities smaller than Neenah are supporting such an organization. He also stressed the need for suggestive selling to increase sales to each customer, and the outlined Green Bay's seasonal sales program and its farm dairy day.

He declared that the Fox river valley is the best in Wisconsin for retail merchants, pointing out that there is more money in this section of the state than in any other.

The merchants also selected a plan calculated to protect them, the plan consisting of an advertising and donation bureau set up by the Jaces and composed of unnamed members.

George Pyott, who explained the program, pointed out that before merchants make donations to various projects, the projects must be on the approved list. The same applies to advertising promotions.

Menasha Gridders Open Practice for Game With Neenah

Bluejays Will Hold Only Two Drill Sessions This Week

Menasha — Menasha high school gridders, who have won two and lost three in the Northeastern Wisconsin conference, Monday started preparing for the final game of the season, the traditional contest with Neenah high school on Armistice day.

The Jays will have relatively little work this week. Coach N. A. Calder has planned drills for only Monday and Tuesday and will excuse his squad for the rest of the week. Intensive drills will be staged next week however, starting with Monday. Daily practices will be held with a final light session planned for Friday, Nov. 10. The Jays will clash with the Red Rockets at 2 o'clock on the afternoon of Armistice day at Neenah.

Failure to uncoil a concerted drive resulted in the defeat by New London last Friday night. The Jays managed to string two and three first downs together in their own territory or occasionally shook a runner loose for jaunts of 20 and 30 yards but the offense bogged down at those critical moments. One time the Jays got Richard Sheleski loose with two men in front of him and only the safety standing in the way of a touchdown. Both blockers failed to remove the safety and Sheleski was stopped.

Work on Blocking
The Jays will go back to work on blocking and tackling in drills for preparation for the Neenah game, according to Coach N. A. Calder. The Jays did some blocking against New London but the heavy blocking and guards paid no attention to the Menasha efforts and only smashed them to stop Menasha thrusts into the line.

While Menasha has a week of rest before pointing for the Neenah game, the Red Rockets must face an improved Clintonville team this Saturday. The Rockets scored their first victory of the season Saturday and by beating both Clintonville and Menasha can end the season with a 5-0 record in the conference. The Jays also need a victory in the Neenah game in order to close their conference season with a 5-0 rating.

After the Olympics get underway, they will continue until completed with each tournament held no more than two weeks apart. Rules and regulations were adopted.

Donald Colburn, who is in charge of the Olympics, pointed out that the various committees will be appointed after a questionnaire, which will be sent out soon, has been filled and returned by the organizations.

The Olympics will be open to all men's organizations in Neenah and Menasha, and about 20 groups have indicated that they will take part.

He discussed a champion female, pointing out the standard of the breed, while Mrs. Lowenbach showed a terrier which has won its CBX title. She put the dog through its paces in the obedience class. Mrs. Lowenbach, who trained the dog herself, explained the procedure.

Bette Davis and Errol Flynn—as Queen Elizabeth and the Earl of Essex in a scene from Warners' lavish Technicolor adaptation of Maxwell Anderson's play "Elizabeth the Queen," retitled "The Private Lives of Elizabeth and Essex."

By Jimmie Fidler

Hollywood—When I was a kid back in Tennessee, an aged Negro who did odd jobs for the family used to tell ghost stories every Halloween—stories that left me a-quiver for weeks. In fact, until Xmas gave me something else to think about, I whistled loudly when walking home alone at night and went to bed to dream about a fleshless skeleton tapping me on the shoulder and saying, "You're my meat!"

This Halloween, I'm again thinking of ghosts—the ghosts of our great stars who have taken final curtain calls. About Wally Reid, Barbara Lamar, Jean Harlow, Jack Pickett, Mabel Normand and the many, many others so well-remembered that they are still active influences in Hollywood. Somehow, it wouldn't seem strange or unnatural if their shades did come back now and then to stand on the sidelines of the world of make-believe they loved so well. It's impossible to imagine people once so keenly alive, ever being less alive. And I don't think even the most timid youngster, quaking in his boots as he listens to spooky tales tonight, would be afraid of such light-hearted, laughter-loving ghosts as theirs would be.

Stars like ours cannot really die until the last person who saw them on the screen has joined them—and the last echo of the applause they won has faded into silence. I'd like to meet them all once more on this all-hallows Eve!

Massing of Troops Believed Another Nerves Maneuver

Germany's Shifting of Men Keeps French, British on Edge

BY CHARLES S. FOLTZ, JR. Basel, Switzerland — (7) — New German troop concentrations were reported today in the Black Forest, but many observers expressed belief this might be only another maneuver in Germany's "war of nerves."

They believed that Germany had nine army corps of nearly 2,000,000 men on the western front, facing France from Switzerland to The Netherlands.

Since the French withdrew from German soil, there have been at least six elaborately-planned concentrations by the Germans, these observers said.

One was near the Belgian and Netherlands borders, another in the Haardt forests north of Wissembourg, then around Baden, then in the Saar area then back to the Belgian border sector, and now in the Black Forest.

By keeping the initiative and maintaining the threat of attack through these swift concentrations the Germans are forcing France and Great Britain into counter-concentrations, these onlookers said, and thus any arrangements for an allied offensive are made extremely difficult.

(The French last night reported a few infantry patrols and reconnaissance flight on the western front.) The Germans recently erected a high wall on the frontier road, hiding part of the defense system once readily visible from the Swiss side.

Watching dozens of extras and bit players leave the "Grapes of Wrath" set at Twentieth Century-Fox today, it struck me that it's the first time I've ever seen actresses rush to put on makeup after a day's work instead of taking makeup off. Women working in the pictures are not permitted to wear even a trace of greasepaint, rouge, eye-brow pencil or other beauty aids. And the most militant crusader for naturalness, after scanning the results, would be forced to admit they're a mighty sad looking lot. Evidently, they agree for I noticed that when the director says "that's all," they reach for compacts—even before shedding their tattered and grimy outfit wraps.

Judith Barrett, convinced that her parrot (a gift from an Eastern fan) would not talk, got the shock of her life yesterday. Seems she was entertaining a few gal-friends for bridge when the heretofore silent bird suddenly broke loose with: "Talk, talk, talk! They're driving me nuts!"

518 More Badger Farmers in Line For Electricity

REA Grants Additional Funds for Extension of Power Facilities

Post-Crescent Washington bureau Washington — About 518 more Wisconsin farmers will be supplied with electricity.

For the Rural Electrification administration of the department of agriculture has granted additional funds to both the Waupaca Electric cooperative of Iowa, and the Grant Electric cooperative of Lancaster.

The cooperative at Iowa has an allotment of $148,000, to serve 376 members of Waupaca, Shawano and Marathon counties with approximately 139 miles of line. Of this sum, $39,000 will be required for certain initial operations of the project. The construction will afford nearly 29,000 man hours of employment in direct labor alone.

The $61,000 grant to the Lancaster cooperative will provide about 62 miles of line for 142 members of Grant county.

The Waupaca Electric cooperative has received total grants in the past of $204,000, while the Grant Electric cooperative has had more than twice the amount at $560,000.

The first cooperative has already supplied 726 members with 276 miles of line in Waupaca, Portage, Shawano and Marathon counties. The latter, with larger funds, has furnished 1,571 members in Grant, Crawford, Iowa, LaPayette and Richland counties with electricity from 693 miles of line.

Curb, Gutter Work to Shut Down This Week

The WPA curb and gutter project now in progress on Wood street, between North and El-dorado streets, will be the last this fall. Alfred Wickesberg, city engineer, said this morning.

The work will be finished Friday. Also scheduled for completion this week is a sidewalk raising program that has been carried on in various sections of the city by two crews. Wickesberg said the curb and gutter projects would "probably be renewed in May of next year."

FHA Branch Office to Be Moved to Milwaukee

The Appleton branch office of the Federal Housing administration will be moved to Milwaukee this week. The branch office has been maintained in the Federal building here since March, 1933 with Robert M. Jones, fieldman, in charge.

After A Man's Heart

uly waves with Iris's sleek black hair, her somewhat abrupt movements with Iris's grace.

"Poor old Tim," she mused. "No wonder he fell, and fell hard, for this charmer! But she shan't have him—she most certainly shall not! She's a fake, through and through. She means no good to Tim, no matter what brought her back here." Her small jaw tightened and the look of purpose Tim had learned to recognize darkened her blue eyes.

He fully expected the girls to part with coldness on both sides. He was astonished to hear Buff cordially inviting Iris to lunch with her soon, to hear Miss DeMuth's equally cordial acceptance. Tim, as Buff fully realized, knew little of girls!

Buff was not surprised to receive a visit from George Weekes almost on the heels of this call. George has passed from annoyance to anxiety. He yearned to pour out his troubles. He was glad to hear that the girls had met, that Buff recognized the genuine menace Iris was to a man of Tim's type.

"Why she's here I don't know," he said, his clasped hands swinging between his knees. "But whatever it is, it's not going to do old Tim any good—having her here in Boulder, I mean. I think—this is just my impression, but I do honestly think, Buff, that he won't be quite the easy mark for her he was last time. At any rate, he's said nothing about being engaged to her, and that's a good sign. But I wish she'd go climb Long's Peak and fall off," he said unchivalrously. "Way it is now, she'll keep him dangling at the end of her string until she's accomplished her purpose—whatever that purpose is."

Buff was thoughtful. "What do you think it is, George? I don't know just how much she paid for that land."

"Buying Tim's Favor"

"Twenty thousand," was the answer. "Tim and I each put in five of our own money, ten of the firm's—firm of Corliss and Weekes; that made twenty altogether. I should say that it's worth about fifteen hundred—if that much. And lookit, Buff! Iris didn't have to pay Nesbit twenty thousand. We'd told him to sell it for what he could get out of it. In our wildest dreams we didn't expect to get more'n a couple of thousand. But Iris walks into the office, let's Nesbit she's prepared to pay twenty thousand if he'll let her buy it for a friend of hers—name of Smith! And Nesbit, of course, grabbed it. Now why, I ask you, did she pay the exact sum old Tim and I planked down for Latshaw's benefit last summer? It's got me guessing."

"You don't think it may be really valuable, after all?"

He shook his head. "That idea occurred to me, too; but it's out. Definitely out. Tim has personally and thoroughly examined practically every square inch of that da—that infernal land of ours. You couldn't get enough silver out of it to make a thin dime."

"Tungsten? Copper?"

"Nothing. I tell you; nothing but some beautiful rose-colored quartz that tourists adore to take home to make doorstops and bookends."

"What's become of the gentleman named Latshaw?"

"According to Iris via Tim, he's now in California. Becoming conscious of the unworthy part she had played, Miss DeMuth dismissed her—her motivating influence as soon as possible, and got herself a job as private secretary to some generous soul who paid her right good wages. I should think, all things considered, then someone had the consideration to die and leave her some money, so out she took for Denver, bought up our land, and came here, simply pining for forgiveness—and nothing else, says Tim! Nuts, says I and I bet you do, too, Buff."

Buff nodded. "I think," she told him, "she's really in love with Tim; that she got that money back from Latshaw some way or other—it may have been a case of polite blackmail—and she is trying to buy her way with it back into Tim's—Tim's favor."

"Think she'll succeed?" Weekes inquired with a grin.

Buff's small hands were folded tightly on her lap.

"Depends on many things; people, too; you, me, Tim and Iris."

"Tim and Iris, yes; but how do you and I figure in it?"

"We'll — you might just keep track of what happens to that land Iris bought. I have a hunch you'll hear sooner or later that it has left her possession. I don't know why she wants it, but I'm sure it's the meat in this coconut. There's another thing you can do, too; be rather, Tim relies a lot on your opinion. I know it worries him right now that you are what he calls cynical regarding Iris. Keep it up. He's promised me," she told him, the color rising a little in her face, "that he won't do anything—anything drastic for a while. That means, of course, he won't renew his engagement with Iris. Playing for time's our best bet. People like Iris and Latshaw have to work fast. She'll—overplay her hand if we let her alone long enough; at least that's about the way it seems to me."

He looked at her curiously. "You're even smarter than I've given you credit for being, my dear, and that's a lot. But you—where do you figure in this?"

"I've a role of my own to play," she sighed. "A darned difficult one, too, if you ask me. Comradely, sympathizing friend to Tim, girlish pal to lovely Iris. H'm. I thought I

U. W. President to Be Chief Speaker At Safety Program

Mill Executives Also to Appear Thursday Evening at Kimberly

Kimberly — Dr. C. A. Dykstra, president of the University of Wisconsin, will be the principal speaker at the evening program at the clubhouse Thursday evening, the climax of the fourth annual Kimberly mill and community safety day. After Dr. Dykstra's address, short talks also will be given by F. J. Sensenbrenner, president of Kimberly-Clark Corporation, and S. P. Shattuck and Ernest Mahler, vice presidents.

Doors of the auditorium at the clubhouse will open at 6:15 Thursday evening. At 6:45 the Community band will give a concert until 7:30 when the speakers are scheduled to appear. No admission will be charged for the program and there will be no reserved seats. When the auditorium has been filled the doors will be closed so that the speakers can be heard without lobby interference. Later a minstrel show will be staged with more than fifty Kimberly-Clark employees in the cast.

The school program, to be given by high school students, which was scheduled for Thursday morning, will be held at 1:30 Wednesday afternoon at the clubhouse. Both schools have prepared programs, and movies will be shown. The change in this program, will enable more visitors to go through the mill Thursday forenoon. Plans have been made to handle a crowd of about 2,000 persons.

About 60 Guides

About 60 guides will be in charge of taking visitors through the mill. They made preliminary training trips through the mill last week. The tours will be made at regular intervals from 9 o'clock in the morning until 6 in the evening.

Those making the trip will follow up the papermaking process from the beginning. Starting at the woodroom they will see the large logs coming in on the log haul as their tour ends they will find large rolls of paper in the finishing room, ready to be shipped.

Other departments to be visited include the machine shop, boiler house, sulphite digester room, wet machine room, groundwood, electrical department, old and new bleachery, beater room, papermachine room, cutter room, and chlorine department. H. H. Heller, chairman of the guide committee, said that was writing plays, not starring in 'em.
